

NEWELL BRIDGE COMPANY READY TO BEGIN WORK

As a Preliminary Council Will Be Asked to Donate a Short Right of Way.

THE PLANS CALL FOR A $250,000 STRUCTURE

Work will be started on the new bridge which is to span the Ohio river connecting Newell, W. Va., with East Liverpool at the western terminus of Fourth street, in a very short time. After months spent in the preparation of plans and numberless other details incident to a project of such large proportions, authentic announcement was made this afternoon by a member of the Newell Bridge company, the concern that is to build the structure, that active operations will be commenced just as soon as a short right of way is granted the company by the city council.

The company long ago succeeded in securing a right of way to the approach on the south side of the river and some months ago it was given the consent of the government to erect the bridge. It was then necessary to secure certain grants on the East Liverpool end of the structure. Two lots were purchased from Press Smith the latter part of last week, which will

Marie Putella, a little seven-year-old Italian girl, was run down by a street car on Sixth street shortly before noon yesterday and painfully if not seriously injured. The child was out for a walk with her brother, who was wheeling a baby in a go-cart. They started across the track near the residence of Dr. George P. FIRST VISIT HOME IN 25 YEARS

Arrival of an Old Soldier on a Visit to Gardendale Celebrated Joyously.

An unusual gathering assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haverly in Gardendale yesterday to celebrate the home coming of John Brooks, the brother of Mrs. Haverly. John Brooks was a soldier of the union army and at the close of hostilities went to the far west. Mrs. Haverly neither seen nor heard from her brother for over 25 years. He arrived in the city last week and after some difficulty succeeded in locating his sister.

Preparations were at once made to celebrate the event, and yesterday a dinner was held at the Haverly home. Twenty-one members of the family were present and a very enjoyable time was had. Among the guests were four great-grandchildren and five grandchildren of the Haverlys.

Thomas Couchman Gets Severe Burns In Putting Out a Blaze at His Home.

Without this piece of property the company cannot reach Fifth street and it will make a strong appeal to council tomorrow evening for the right of way.

The building of the bridge will materially benefit East Liverpool and as the property asked for is of no particular value to the city it is thought that council will act favorably on the request.

After the entire right of way is secured there will be absolutely nothing to hinder the company from proceeding with the construction work. The bridge will cost $250,000 and will be one of the finest from every standpoint anywhere along the river. The plans for it have been prepared by E. K. Morse, the well known bridge engineer of Pittsburgh.

Couchman, meantime, was busy in putting out the fire. He tore down the blazing curtains and carried a couch that was blazing out into the street. Exhausted by his efforts and the pain in his burned hands, he fell on the floor and Dr. J. Howard Davis was sent for. Couchman's face was blistered and he had inhaled large quantities of smoke, but he had conquered the fire that threatened to make three families homeless. The loss was chiefly to the household furniture.

NELLIE JONES HELD

Will Go to Jail at Lisbon For Alleged Action in Sarah Turner Case.

Nellie Jones, charged with luring Sarah Turner into a house of disrepute, had a hearing before Mayor Weaver Saturday afternoon. The mayor thought the testimony adduced of sufficient weight to justify him in binding the girl over to common pleas court. She could not furnish bail and will be compelled to go to the Lisbon jail.

Lenon McDevitt, charged with living unlawfully with the Jones girl, was heard also and bound over to court. He secured a bondsman and was released.

ROOM IS NEEDED FOR THE STUDENTS

New Building Demanded at State University to Cost $200,000.

AID FOR CERAMIC SCHOOL

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, March 21.—An appeal will be made by the ceramic department of the Ohio State university to the clay working industries of Ohio in behalf of an appropriation from the legislature for the erection of a school of mines building at the Ohio State university. In the recent fire which burned down the chemical building, the departments of chemistry, pharmacy, mining and metallurgy were thrown out of quarters. Rightly, mining, metallurgy and ceramics comprise the school of mining, but owing to crowded conditions they were separated in different buildings.

The ceramics department was established 10 years ago by special act of the legislature, through the active efforts of the clay workers of Ohio. It was the first institution of its kind in this country. Since that time it has sent out men who have succeeded in every branch of the clay industry. During these years no increase of space has been given, and little improvement in apparatus or equipment. The number of students has constantly increased, but the limit is now reached and no further expansion is possible unless additional room is provided.

Two buildings are wanted, one for chemistry and pharmacy and another for a school of mines, comprising mining, metallurgy and ceramics, the three mineral industries.

A request is before the finance committee of the house of representatives, asking for $200,000 for the erection of these buildings. Owing to the theory of state insurance, half of this amount is practically insurance money on the burned chemical building. No insurance is carried on state property, for in case of loss by fire the people of the state would be taxed for the insurance, and an appropriation to rebuild is practically the same thing. So that $100,000 is really all that the new appropriation will amount to. The finance committee in the house will probably report the bill making the appropriation on Wednesday.

Petitions will be presented to the citizens of pottery towns, asking them to use their influence with their representatives in behalf of the granting of the appropriation.

A CLAIM FILED

By a Wellsville Man For Labor Done on the Whitacre Block.

Lisbon, March 21.—(Special.)—In a petition filed here today, Bert Gregory, as plaintiff against E. G. Whitacre and Samuel Coleman, asks the court to determine the amount due him for labor performed and that property in Wellsville may be sold to satisfy the claim.

The plaintiff says that about a year ago the defendants contracted with Coleman for the construction of a business block on Third street in Wellsville. About July 1, Coleman employed him to quarry and cut stone for the building, Gregory to receive 50 cents an hour for cutting and 22 cents an hour for quarrying. He says he worked at cutting 264 hours and at quarrying 22 hours, and has received only $55. He alleges that $31.84 with interest is still due him. He wants the claim declared a lien on the property.

WYMAN CASE NEAR THE END

Attorneys Anxious to Submit Testimony to Supreme Court.

ABSENCE OF REV. DR. PRATT

Will Not Cause Another Continuance of the Hearing—Time Limit Will Be Short If Court Stenographer Can Be Secured.

The attorneys in the celebrated Wyman case have mutually agreed to have the hearing, which was continued until next Friday, fall on Wednesday or Thursday of this week, the plaintiffs declaring that they are satisfied to let the case go before the supreme court without the testimony of Rev. Dr. Pratt. The only barrier to the early hearing will be the failure in getting the services of Miss Alice Glenn, of Lisbon, the court stenographer.

The agreement of the attorneys comes as quite a surprise after the heated argument at conclusion of the last hearing. It will be recalled that Attorney Lones for the plaintiff expressed himself strongly regarding the testimony he hoped to gain from Rev. Dr. Pratt. He told Attorney Brookes that the minister would be made to talk more than he did at Lisbon before Judge Hole, and Attorney Brookes replied: "I guess you will get a whole lot more out of him."

At this time Commissioner Gaston was told by the attorneys for the plaintiff that a continuance until March 25 would suit them provided the minister and the other witnesses were on hand to testify.

Rev. Dr. Pratt being reported ill in Maine, it is not thought likely he will be home this week and as the attorneys for both sides are anxious to get a decision they have decided to allow the record of the minister's testimony taken by the court stenographer to go before the highest tribunal in the state.

When the hearing does come up before Commissioner Gaston there will be at least a dozen witnesses examined. All of those who were absent at the last hearing have returned and they having been served with subpoenas will be compelled to appear.

It has also been learned that other witnesses will be subpoenaed, witnesses who have never testified yet in the case.

The property was appraised at $1,200 and was sold to J. W. Patterson for $1,060.

DYING CONFESSION MAY PARTLY SOLVE A MYSTERY Negro Who Was Hanged At Roanoke May Have Had a Hand In Revolting Crime.

It is generally supposed by the residents of Chester who were living in the vicinity at the time, that the colored man, Henry Williams, who confessed to having killed a woman in East Liverpool just before he was hanged at Roanoke, Va., last Friday, as exclusively reported in the News Review, is the man who killed Mrs. Mary Kinders at Chester Thanksgiving eve, 1899.

The crime was one of the most dastardly in the annals of West Virginia. The Polish woman was brutally murdered by a colored man who entered the shanty where she cooked for a number of foreigners in the employ of Contractor McNally, who was building the New Cumberland extension of the Panhandle. The brute came to the shanty during the forenoon of Wednesday, November 29, and after taking about $300 from the woman, beat her into insensibility. She died a few hours later, after telling what she knew of the affair. At the inquest the most important witness was the dead

TRIED TO END HER SORROWS UNDER WHEELS OF A TRAIN

A Mother's Desperation Would Have Ended In Suicide But For Timely Rescue.

HER SON HELPED TO SAVE HER LIFE

Preferring death to the life of sorrow she has led for years, cruel fate having settled a mantle of gloom and sadness over her existence so long that misery only has been her companion, Mrs. Mollie Hanley, of the East End, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide by jumping in front of a train near the passenger station Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. She was saved from a horrible death by her son and a well known saggermaker, who carried her from the track in the nick of time.

The attempt of Mrs. Hanley to end her pitiable life was made in the presence of scores of people. Though she had encountered quite enough to make the average woman give up in despair long ago, it was not until her son, Harry, who she loves dearly and for whom only she has suffered herself to live, informed her that he was going to enter the United States army, that she decided to end all under the wheels of the train. For an hour she pleaded with the son to withdraw his application and when he refused she left him standing in front of the Lakel hotel and commenced staggering toward the track.

The pony engine was speeding westward only a short distance away when the poor disconsolate creature threw herself to the middle of the track. The son had followed her with his eyes and when he saw her imminent peril rushed to her side. Taking hold of her he tried to drag her from between the rails, but she was determined and fought him desperately. It was then that a spectator, who knows her well, jumped to her side and his efforts together with those of the son were successful in pulling her from the very jaws of death, the train at this time being close upon them.

There are few women who have been destined to bear a life of continued discouragements such as has been the fate of Mrs. Hanley. Her husband left her some years ago and not long since a divorce was given them. All this was the culmination of domestic troubles which caused the woman indescribable anguish.

Not long ago her sister, Lizzie Finney, of the East End, died very suddenly. Just prior to her death, Miss Carrie Finney, a young school teacher and also a sister of Mrs. Hanley, sustained very severe injuries in a coasting accident. She has been lying at the point of death for weeks and is expected to die at any time.

These troubles, together with many that are known to none other than Mrs. Hanley, were almost unbearable, but when her beloved son threatened to leave her it was too much for the already broken-down woman.

It was learned today that the boy was not admitted to the army, being under age and not physically qualified.

TWELVE YEARS SENTENCE FOR MANSLAUGHTER

The Man Who Was Killed Was Himself a Murderer and Had Never Been Caught. Steubenville, March 21.—Frank Laposky, who pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter in the killing of Alex. Smith, was called for sentence. His counsel, P. P. Lewis, appealed to the court for leniency, and stated that he had made inquiry into the previous character of the defendant, and had found nothing against him save this unfortunate affair. He is 30 years old, coming here when 12, and had worked at coal mining at Dillonvale and Rush Run; he is married and has a family of two children.

His wife is wholly without support, and has already made application for transportation to Bridgeport, Conn., where she may stay with relatives until his sentence expires. The man he killed was himself a murderer, having killed a man at Packer, W. Va., and had escaped and never been apprehended. Judge Jordan, for the state, said that while the state was not blood thirsty, he thought the case merited a severe sentence. He said that Laposky, who had been drinking, had shot his boarder, Smith, without any provocation. Judge Richards then pronounced sentence of twelve years' imprisonment against Laposky.

Though the mayor did not express himself on the ordinance it is thought he will be present at the meeting and implore council to pass it as he submitted it. He believes steadfastly that it will hold water, having based his opinion on good authority and he will more than likely protest against its passage if certain provisions are not included.

One member of the committee stated today that he would not include all of the provisions unless the mayor promises to stand personally for the cost of trying them in court. He stated that the condition of the treasury will not warrant any carelessness or any risk. The ordinance will place restrictions on the wine rooms but will not abolish them. It will prohibit the congregating of people of different sex in them.

TRIED TO END HER SORROWS UNDER WHEELS OF A TRAIN

A Mother's Desperation Would Have Ended In Suicide But For Timely Rescue.

HER SON HELPED TO SAVE HER LIFE

Preferring death to the life of sorrow she has led for years, cruel fate having settled a mantle of gloom and sadness over her existence so long that misery only has been her companion, Mrs. Mollie Hanley, of the East End, made a desperate attempt to commit suicide by jumping in front of a train near the passenger station Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. She was saved from a horrible death by her son and a well known saggermaker, who carried her from the track in the nick of time.

The attempt of Mrs. Hanley to end her pitiable life was made in the presence of scores of people. Though she had encountered quite enough to make the average woman give up in despair long ago, it was not until her son, Harry, who she loves dearly and for whom only she has suffered herself to live, informed her that he was going to enter the United States army, that she decided to end all under the wheels of the train. For an hour she pleaded with the son to withdraw his application and when he refused she left him standing in front of the Lakel hotel and commenced staggering toward the track.

The pony engine was speeding westward only a short distance away when the poor disconsolate creature threw herself to the middle of the track. The son had followed her with his eyes and when he saw her imminent peril rushed to her side. Taking hold of her he tried to drag her from between the rails, but she was determined and fought him desperately. It was then that a spectator, who knows her well, jumped to her side and his efforts together with those of the son were successful in pulling her from the very jaws of death, the train at this time being close upon them.

There are few women who have been destined to bear a life of continued discouragements such as has been the fate of Mrs. Hanley. Her husband left her some years ago and not long since a divorce was given them. All this was the culmination of domestic troubles which caused the woman indescribable anguish.

Not long ago her sister, Lizzie Finney, of the East End, died very suddenly. Just prior to her death, Miss Carrie Finney, a young school teacher and also a sister of Mrs. Hanley, sustained very severe injuries in a coasting accident. She has been lying at the point of death for weeks and is expected to die at any time.

These troubles, together with many that are known to none other than Mrs. Hanley, were almost unbearable, but when her beloved son threatened to leave her it was too much for the already broken-down woman.

It was learned today that the boy was not admitted to the army, being under age and not physically qualified.

TWELVE YEARS SENTENCE FOR MANSLAUGHTER

The Man Who Was Killed Was Himself a Murderer and Had Never Been Caught.

Steuensville, March 21.—Frank Laposky, who pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter in the killing of Alex. Smith, was called for sentence. His counsel, P. P. Lewis, appealed to the court for leniency, and stated that he had made inquiry into the previous character of the defendant, and had found nothing against him save this unfortunate affair. He is 30 years old, coming here when 12, and had worked at coal mining at Dillonvale and Rush Run; he is married and has a family of two children.

His wife is wholly without support, and has already made application for transportation to Bridgeport, Conn., where she may stay with relatives until his sentence expires. The man he killed was himself a murderer, having killed a man at Packer, W. Va., and had escaped and never been apprehended. Judge Jordan, for the state, said that while the state was not blood thirsty, he thought the case merited a severe sentence. He said that Laposky, who had been drinking, had shot his boarder, Smith, without any provocation. Judge Richards then pronounced sentence of twelve years' imprisonment against Laposky.

FOUR ARE LIKELY TO GO TO LISBON

Two Prisoners Get Jail Sentences And Two Are Held for the Grand Jury.

Milo Cain was arraigned before Mayor Weaver this morning. He had pleaded guilty to using profane and indecent language. The mayor sentenced him to the county jail for 30 days. John Bradley received the same sentence, having pleaded guilty to stealing barrels from the Hall China company.

Duff Call and a man by the name of Miller were bound over to court in the sum of $100 to answer to a charge of petit larceny. They were unsuccessful in an attempt to secure a bondsman and it is likely that the quartet will be taken to the county seat tomorrow.

Licensed to Marry.

Lisbon, March 21.—(Special.)—Eli Greeneisen and Miss Emma Stoller, of North Georgetown, have been granted a marriage license.

WINE ROOM BILL WILL BE DISCUSSED

MAYOR'S ORDINANCE BEFORE COUNCIL TOMORROW.

It Has Been Changed Considerably, But Will Doubtless Cause Much Debate.

Mayor Weaver's wine room ordinance will come up before council tomorrow evening. The ordinance committee of council has finished deducting provisions from it and today the city solicitor was busy in preparing it for action by council. The ordinance committee will meet tonight and pass finally upon it.

The ordinance has been severely slashed. The members of the committee have eliminated every provision of it which was thought by them to be in any manner conflicting with former ordinances and the committee also saw fit to deduct provisions that, according to their theory, might not stand a test before the courts.

Though the mayor did not express himself on the ordinance it is thought he will be present at the meeting and implore council to pass it as he submitted it. He believes steadfastly that it will hold water, having based his opinion on good authority and he will more than likely protest against its passage if certain provisions are not included.

One member of the committee stated today that he would not include all of the provisions unless the mayor promises to stand personally for the cost of trying them in court. He stated that the condition of the treasury will not warrant any carelessness or any risk. The ordinance will place restrictions on the wine rooms but will not abolish them. It will prohibit the congregating of people of different sex in them.

DEMAND IS STRONG

From All Parts of the State for a Sanitarium For Consumptives.

Columbus, March 21.—(Special.)—Demands come from all parts of the state for the passage of the Heinlein bill to establish a sanitarium for consumptives. An effort will be made to get the bill out of the hands of the senate committee this week. There has been no opposition to it save that which comes from the natural lack of funds, but Senator Heinlein is hopeful that a way will open whereby this can be arranged for.

Among the Potteries and Allied Industries

RUSSIAN POTTERY.

Very little is known in this country about Russian pottery. In the St. Petersburg royal porcelain manufactory exceedingly fine and artistic ware is produced, though it is almost impossible to bring samples out of that country, which accounts for its great scarcity in Europe and America. The pottery is of a bold, semi-barbaric character, with arabesque decorations, consisting of heads of animals in relief etc. The industry is carried on rather sparingly, and, aside from this royal porcelain plant, there is but little attention given to the production of ceramic wares.

In a Pennsylvania museum, of which Edwin Atlee Barber is curator, can be seen a case of decorated Russian pottery, which was originally exhibited at centennial exposition in 1876. This pottery is of a buff or orange colored clay, and the decorations are in relief and highly colored. The pieces are in the shape of coffee pots, vases, plaques, etc. Another variety is decorated with animals painted in enameled colors. In this museum is also a single piece of porcelain, artistically decorated, consisting of cup and saucer, from one of the modern Russian potteries.

STILL UNADJUSTED.

Toronto, March 21.—(Special).—The situation among the sewer pipe workers who are connected with the regime of the American Sower Pipe company, is still as far from adjustment as ever. The men refuse to accept the 20 per cent reduction asked by the combine and as a majority of the workmen are skilled in their trade, will, unless an adjustment is soon forthcoming, seek situations elsewhere.

THE WELSH EXHIBIT.

The Welsh Industries association have sent a case of pottery to the St. Louis exposition from their London depot, space having been placed at their disposal by the royal commission.

GOD'S KINGDOM NOT A CREED

But a Power That Is Capable of Transforming Every Life.

THE WORLD IS MOVED

By the Influence of the Savior—Rev. J. G. Reinartz Preaches on the Acceptance of Christ—Services in Other Pulpits.

Rev. Llewellyn O. Eldridge, of West Farmington, O., preached to a large congregation at the First M. E. church yesterday morning. He chose as his text 1st Cor. iv:20, "For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power." He said:

"This is the stage of investigation. The world is growing better and an honest, truthful investigation will reveal this fact. This sport has entered the church and is leading to a fuller knowledge of the kingdom of God. The kingdom of God is joy and peace and righteousness. It is within us and is revealed when we have given ourselves to God.

"The kingdom of God is a power and not a creed. It is a simple influence that enters a life and transforms it. God rules in the world despite the sin that is in it. He has always found men and women ready to serve him. Human life is like a magnet which has the power to attract when the current of God's power is passed through it. We may repeat a creed and not have a vital relationship with it. And how should we secure this power? By prayer. It is not brains. But the power of Christ that will move this world. It is not only a duty, but a privilege to know God and do His will."

Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. John's Lutheran church, preached last evening from St. John, 8:46, "Which of you convinceth Me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe in Me?"

Speaking of the opposition and having displayed against Christ, he said the attitude of the Savior in this controversy revealed His divine nature. He answered no insults, but spoke words of love and sympathy. He continued:

"There is a vital connection between the moral character of Christ and the truthfulness of His claim. His adversaries admitted His goodness. Either He was the Son of God or the worst of men; He was the Christ or a blasphemous liar. It was a great condescension for Him to submit to the test they put. He challenged them to show where, or when or in what He had departed from righteousness. No one accepted the challenge.

"Why did they not believe Him? Every man is inevitably bound by truth and God Himself is truth. To make light of truth is to make light of God. Those who heard Christ's testimony were bound to receive it. Why did they not? They could not justly believe. But they would not yield. There are multitudes today who act in a similar manner. They admit that Christ is the Son of God, yet they refuse Him. Why? What answer can they give? If the gospel is true what can excuse them?

"Jesus has made one great offer to men today. If they believe in Him they shall have everlasting life. Christ proposes redemption on man's belief in Him, while men, with but human perverseness, blaspheme Him all the more. What is your personal relation to the Christ? What response have you been giving to His word and invitation?"

Rev. Edwin Weary at St. Stephen's church last evening spoke from the text, "Come, for all things are ready," showing the different ways in which God invites mankind to come into his church. He places before us, not trifling gifts, but great gifts, out of the richness and fullness of His abundant love. He gives us richly of all things for our spiritual, mental and bodily good. He uses men as His agents in distributing His bounties. We are oftentimes ungrateful for the bounteous gifts that He has given us, and unthankful in giving Him rightful homage.

At the Y. M. C. A. services yesterday afternoon E. D. Moore made an able address on "The Plan of Salvation." There was excellent music by Prof. Laughlin, the Sunday school orchestra and the choir of the First Presbyterian church. After the meeting several Christian workers in the city met with Mr. Moore for the purpose of talking over plans for reaching young men and inciting them to give greater attention to the religious side of life.

BULL KILLS MATADOR.

Sunday Exhibition at Juarez Ends in Death of Fighter.

El Paso, Tex., March 21.—"Cuco," whose real name is Antonio Fernandez, a matador, was killed in the bull ring at Juarez by a bull to which he had just administered the death thrust.

The bull fight was attended by about 3,000 persons, two-thirds of them Americans, many women being present. It had been announced that Cuco would kill the last bull. The animal was especially vicious and gored two horses early in the fight. When the time arrived for the death thrust "Cuco" stepped forward and when the bull advanced drove the sword to the heart. The bull fell. "Cuco" turned to bow to the judges and cheering crowd. The bull rose and gored him through and through. He died a few minutes after being carried from the arena.

A sandstorm was raging and this blinded "Cuco" so that he could not see the warning signals of his associates, while the applause drowned out the terrified cries of the other fighters when they saw the bull about to gore the man. Many women fainted.

KILLED BY A BURGLAR.

Two New York Policemen Shot, One Dies in Hospital.

New York, March 21.—While in pursuit of a burglar Policemen Hugh J. Enright and Jacob Bachman were shot, the former dying after being taken to a hospital and the latter being mortally wounded. The man who did the shooting and who gave the name of Michael Brush, was captured after he had shot himself in the head. His wound is not serious.

Brush and another man who escaped were detected robbing a bakery in Third avenue by a private watchman who raised an alarm and Enright and Bachman pursued Brush down East Fifty-fifth street. The fugitive fired at Enright, shooting him through the stomach, and a moment later shot Bachman in the stomach and leg.

Other policemen took up the chase and brought Chase to bay after he had taken refuge in a cellar into which he fired a number of shots from two revolvers at his pursuers without effect and then shot himself in the head. Brush was later identified as Jacob J. Huter, who in 1901 was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Trenton, N. J., for burglary.

CAPTURED A FORT.

Gen. Wood's Forces Chastise Slaveholding Mindanao Datto.

Manila, March 21.—News of an important military engagement has just been received from Catabalo, capital of the province of Mindanao. Detachments of the Seventeenth and Twenty-third infantry, troop B, of the Fourteenth cavalry and Gately's battery, in all 450 strong, under command of Gen. Wood, attacked and captured the fort which was held by the Datto Ali, who resisted the anti-slavery law. His works were destroyed and their abandonment forced by the accurate fire of the battery. Two thousand Moros made their retreat with a loss of 100. The Americans sustained no losses.

Twenty-four cannon, 46 lancetas (native artillery), and a large quantity of ammunition were captured. Major Truitt and Captain MacCoy pursued and captured the Datto Iyabangun and his retainers. Troops are now trailing Ali.

TWO FACTIONS CLASH.

Foraker and Dick Adherents Resort to Blows in Convention.

Cleveland, March 21.—Wild scenes of disorder marked the opening of the Twentieth District Republican congressional convention here as the result of the fight between the Dick and Foraker factions. The trouble started when the Dick men nominated Charles Leach as chairman, the Foraker men having selected J. C. Ward of Lake county as the presiding officer. When Leach attempted to take the chair a hand to hand fight followed.

The police finally arrived in force and restored partial order. Each faction nominated its own committees and ticket. The Forakerites renominated Jacob A. Beldier for congress and A. T. Spitzer and F. H. Eggers as delegates to national convention. The Dick delegates nominated Jacob A. Beldier for congress by acclamation and chose J. B. Zerbe and A. T. Spitzer as delegates to the national convention.

A Timely Suggestion.
This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be ward off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children, for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. KAISER SAVES BOY'S LIFE.

With Aid of Alfonso of Spain Drowning Lad is Rescued.

Berlin, March 21.—Emperor William and King Alfonso figured as life savers in a story told in Das Kleine Journal. According to the paper, the two monarchs were cruising about the harbor of Vigo on a gunboat when, owing to the awkward maneuvering of a fishing steamer named the Meliton, the two year old boy fell between the vessels and would inevitably have been crushed but for the intervention of the monarchs, who personally dragged him to the gunboat.

The Meliton was seriously damaged and it is considered almost a miracle that her boiler did not explode, which, in view of the position of the craft, would have been extremely dangerous to the gunboat.

GOD'S KINGDOM NOT A CREED

But a Power That Is Capable of Transforming Every Life.

THE WORLD IS MOVED

By the Influence of the Savior—Rev. J. G. Reinartz Preaches on the Acceptance of Christ—Services in Other Pulpits.

Rev. Llewellyn O. Eldridge, of West Farmington, O., preached to a large congregation at the First M. E. church yesterday morning. He chose as his text 1st Cor. iv:20, "For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power." He said:

"This is the stage of investigation. The world is growing better and an honest, truthful investigation will reveal this fact. This sport has entered the church and is leading to a fuller knowledge of the kingdom of God. The kingdom of God is joy and peace and righteousness. It is within us and is revealed when we have given ourselves to God.

"The kingdom of God is a power and not a creed. It is a simple influence that enters a life and transforms it. God rules in the world despite the sin that is in it. He has always found men and women ready to serve him. Human life is like a magnet which has the power to attract when the current of God's power is passed through it. We may repeat a creed and not have a vital relationship with it. And how should we secure this power? By prayer. It is not brains, but the power of Christ that will move this world. It is not only a duty, but a privilege to know God and do His will."

Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. John's Lutheran church, preached last evening from St. John, 8:46, "Which of you convinceth Me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe in Me?"

Speaking of the opposition and hatred displayed against Christ, he said the attitude of the Savior in this controversy revealed His divine nature. He answered no insults, but spoke words of love and sympathy. He continued:

"There is a vital connection between the moral character of Christ and the truthfulness of His claim. His adversaries admitted His goodness. Either He was the Son of God or the worst of men; He was the Christ of a blasphemous man. It was a great condescension for Him to submit to the test they put. He challenged them to show where, or when or in what He had departed from righteousness. No one accepted the challenge.

"Why did they not believe Him? Every man is inevitably bound by truth and God Himself is truth. To make light of truth is to make light of God. Those who heard Christ's testimony were bound to receive it. Why did they not? They could not justly believe. But they would not yield. There are multitudes today who act in a similar manner. They admit that Christ is the Son of God, yet they refuse Him. Why? What answer can they give? If the gospel is true what can excuse them?

"Jesus has made one great offer to men today. If they believe in Him they shall have everlasting life. Christ proposes redemption on man's belief in Him, while men, with but human perverseness, blaspheme Him all the more. What is your personal relation to the Christ? What response have you been giving to His word and invitation?"

Rev. Edwin Weary at St. Stephen's church last evening spoke from the text, "Come, for all things are ready," showing the different ways in which God invites mankind to come into his church. He places before us, not trifling gifts, but great gifts, out of the richness and fullness of His abundant love. He gives us richly of all things for our spiritual, mental and bodily good. He uses men as His agents in distributing His bounties. We are oftentimes ungrateful for the bounteous gifts that He has given us, and unthoughtful in giving Him rightful homage.

At the Y. M. C. A. services yesterday afternoon E. D. Moore made an able address on "The Plan of Salvation." There was excellent music by Prof. Laughlin, the Sunday school orchestra and the choir of the First Presbyterian church. After the meeting several Christian workers in the city met with Mr. Moore for the purpose of talking over plans for reaching young men and inciting them to give greater attention to the religious side of life.

BULL KILLS MATADOR.

Sunday Exhibition at Juarez Ends in Death of Fighter.

El Paso, Tex., March 21.—"Cuco," whose real name is Antonio Fernandez, a matador, was killed in the bull ring at Juarez by a bull to which he had just administered the death thrust.

The bull fight was attended by about 3,000 persons, two-thirds of them Americans, many women being present. It had been announced that Cuco would kill the last bull. The animal was especially vicious and gored two horses early in the fight. When the time arrived for the death thrust "Cuco" stepped forward and when the bull advanced drove the sword to the heart. The bull fell. "Cuco" turned to bow to the judges and cheering crowd. The bull rose and gored him through and through. He died a few minutes after being carried from the arena.

A sandstorm was raging and this blinded "Cuco" so that he could not see the warning signals of his associates, while the applause drowned out the terrified cries of the other fighters when they saw the bull about to gore the man. Many women fainted.

KILLED BY A BURGLAR.

Two New York Policemen Shot, One Dies in Hospital.

New York, March 21.—While in pursuit of a burglar Policeman Hugh J. Enright and Jacob Bachman were shot, the former dying after being taken to a hospital and the latter being mortally wounded. The man who did the shooting and who gave the name of Michael Brush, was captured after he had shot himself in the head. His wound is not serious.

Brush and another man who escaped were detected robbing a bakery in Third avenue by a private watchman who raised an alarm and Enright and Bachman pursued Brush down East Fifty-fifth street. The fugitive fired at Enright, shooting him through the stomach, and a moment later shot Bachman in the stomach and leg.

Other policemen took up the chase and brought Chase to bay after he had taken refuge in a cellar into which he fired a number of shots from two revolvers at his pursuers without effect and then shot himself in the head. Brush was later identified as Jacob J. Huter, who in 1901 was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Trenton, N. J., for burglary.

CAPTURED A FORT.

Gen. Wood's Forces Chase Slave-holding Mindanao Datto.

Manila, March 21.—News of an important military engagement has just been received from Catabalo, capital of the province of Mindanao. Detachments of the Seventeenth and Twenty-third infantry, troop B, of the Fourteenth cavalry and Gately's battery, in all 450 strong, under command of Gen. Wood, attacked and captured the fort which was held by the Datto Ali, who resisted the anti-slavery law. His works were destroyed and their abandonment forced by the accurate fire of the battery. Two thousand Moros made their retreat with a loss of 100. The Americans sustained no losses.

Twenty-four cannon, 46 lancetas (native artillery), and a large quantity of ammunition were captured and the fortifications were reduced. Major Truitt and Captain MacCoy pursued and captured the Datto Iyabangun and his retainers. Troops are now trailing Ali.

TWO FACTIONS CLASH.

Foraker and Dick Adherents Resort to Blows in Convention.

Cleveland, March 21.—Wild scenes of disorder marked the opening of the Twentieth District Republican congressional convention here as the result of the fight between the Dick and Foraker factions. The trouble started when the Dick men nominated Charles Leach as chairman, the Foraker men having selected J. C. Ward of Lake county as the presiding officer. When Leach attempted to take the chair a hand to hand fight followed.

The police finally arrived in force and restored partial order. Each faction nominated its own committees and ticket. The Forakerites renominated Jacob A. Beldier for congress and A. T. Spitzer and F. H. Eggers as delegates to national convention. The Dick delegates nominated Jacob A. Beldier for congress by acclamation and chose J. B. Zerbe and A. T. Spitzer as delegates to the national convention.

SERMON TO CHILDREN

Rev. D. W. McQuiston Uses a Novel Method of Illustrating His Sunday Morning Discourse.

The sermon to children preached yesterday morning by Rev. D. W. McQuiston, at the Second United Presbyterian church, was most unique and interesting and was heard by a large congregation, composed mostly of youngsters. The minister talked upon the subject, "Boys We Meet on the Street," and his method of illustrating the many kinds of boys impressed his young hearers vividly. The boys were represented by bottles which were filled with different colored fluids, from the clearest to the darkest. The boys in the congregation were quick to divine that the clear bottle represented the good boy and that the bad ones were shown by the darker fluids. Replying to the minister's questions the boys gave the particular sin that was represented by the different colors. At the conclusion of this part of the sermon the minister by the use of a chemical that made clear the contents of all the bottles showed the cleaning power of the Spirit.

The evening sermon, upon the subject, "Samson Shorn of His Hair," was heard by a large and appreciative congregation.

Gang of Small Boys Out For a Train Returned on a Freight Train Yesterday.

The dozen or more small boys who left town on a freight train a few days ago, returned Sunday evening, much to the relief of anxious relatives. They hit town on an afternoon freight train with none missing or injured, but with a general longing for the square meals and soft beds at home. Henry Green, alleged to be the leader of the band, also returned.

It is stated the boys hit freight trains as far as Ravenna and returned in the same way over a different route. They claim they had no intention of going to St. Louis for the exposition.

A Big Attendance.

The preparatory service to Banner day at the Second Presbyterian church brought forth the largest Sunday school attendance in its history, the enrollment showing 192 pupils and nine visitors. Banner day will be observed next Sunday. The morning and evening sermons by Rev. N. M. Crowe were heard by large congregations.

ACTOR RINGS CURTAIN.

Worn Out by Illness and Poverty He Turns on the Gas.

Detroit, March 21.—Robert Leeland, an actor and writer of melodramas, was found dead in his room. He had committed suicide by stuffing up every crack and crevice in the room and turning on the gas. Leeland, who was 39 years of age, is said by one of his friends to be the son of a wealthy banker in Salt Lake City named Smedley.

Leeland's preparations had been most careful. He even removed the tip from the gas jet to insure a rapid flow. He left a note on the table in the room, saying:

"My only request is that I be buried here at the expense of the city. I have no money. I have spent many hundreds of dollars while here as a member of various theatrical companies. Don't notify my parents, it is unnecessary."

On the back of this note he had written that weakness and illness as the result of an operation for appendicitis and an attack of typhoid fever had incapacitated him for work.

Salt Lake City, March 21.—Robert Leeland's real name is William Burns Smedley. He is the son of William E. Smedley, a wealthy banker and insurance man of this city.

BREAKFAST POISONED.

Cincinnati Woman Dies and Servant Girl Is Under Arrest.

Cincinnati, March 21.—Mrs. Daniel D. Bowdle of this city is dead and her husband and two daughters are seriously ill from poison, which the coroner and the attending physician say is arsenic and which was eaten in a breakfast food.

The food was purchased in an original package at a nearby grocery and was prepared by the family cook, Agnes Manning. The cook ate none of the food nor did the younger daughter of the family, and neither became ill. The cook has been under close questioning by the physician and by the police. She protests her innocence, but has been arrested on suspicion.

The police say the girl has been taken into custody merely as a precaution and that they are positive that Mrs. Bowdle herself prepared the breakfast food which contained the poison. Two vessels were found in the pantry which contained the food. One was filled with rats and the other filled with good food. It is the theory of the police that Mrs. Bowdle by mistake took the wrong dish.

EXCITING CHASE AFTER MORGAN

A Veteran Engineer Tells of His Pursuit of the Rebel Raider.

UP AND DOWN THE TRACK

For a Week Without Rest He Pushed His Engine Until the Welcome News Came That the Band Had Been Caught.

John C. Shimmion, ruddy faced, gray haired, broad of shoulder and lank of limb, runs the flyer over the C. & P. between Cleveland and Pittsburg. He has been an engineer on the C. & P. for over 40 years.

Shimmion has a good story which he will tell, if you find him in the mood. It is the story of Morgan, the Raider. He has other stories, stories of the throttle, and all of them good, but the story of Morgan the Raider is the best of all.

You see, Morgan and his dare-devils had crossed the Ohio on one of those raids of his and now wanted to get back into Virginia. Gen. Shackleton was trying to head him off. It was very much like a game of tag, and if it hadn't been for John Shimmion—

But let me tell you the story as he told it to me, standing with his broad shoulders pressed against one of the powerful drivers of his engine, with his cap on his head and his gauntlets on his hands, smeared with oil on his overalls, a smudge of it on his weather-beaten cheek and an oil can caught in the crook of his arm.

Shimmion chuckled as his thoughts galloped back to the time when a young engineer named Shimmion, who was little more than a boy, chased that brave and spectacular cavalryman up and down the length of the river division of the C. & P. for a whole week without stopping—and caught him on the seventh day along with 600 of his saddle-weary men.

"Tell you about Morgan?" he asked. "I don't mind, though it happened so long ago that my memory may play me tricks. This was the way of it. In those days I was running the Mingo freight over the river division and hauling soldier trains. It was on a Sunday night that I left Pittsburg for Martin's Ferry. On the train were Gen. Shackleton and his men, who hoped to get to Martin's Ferry before Morgan did, as it had been reported he would try to cross the river there into Virginia.

"We of the north couldn't forgive Morgan for the scare he had given us. When we got to Martin's Ferry, Morgan had given the Black Horse Cavalry, which was chasing him, the slip, and had doubled on his tracks.

"Gen. Shackleton ordered his men back aboard the train. I threw the 'old girl' wide open and we pounced east as fast as steam would carry us. At each station farmers were waiting for us. They had ridden into town on sweating horses to report that Morgan had just passed through and had helped himself to fresh horses and food. We went to Steubenville and to Portland and at both places found that Morgan was just ahead of us.

"The river division is a little short of 100 miles long and follows the course of the river. The east terminal is Mingo Junction. Before we reached the end of the division we learned that Morgan had given us the slip again and was traveling back west.

"The Black Horse cavalry was always on his heels, but could never quite catch up with him, for the reason that Morgan helped himself to fresh horses whenever he needed them while the mounts of the Black Horse men were jaded by hours of rough travel.

"Back went the train and Shackleton's men to the west end of the division, then back again to the east end. "Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday seemed no nearer to catching Morgan than when we started. Thursday morning the troops had left the train and started off on the run across country, as it was reported that Morgan was but a few miles away.

"Neither my fireman nor I had had any sleep since Sunday, and the boy was complaining that he was giving out. While the soldiers were away I walked to a nearby telegraph station for orders. The soldiers got back the same time I did. Gad! they were a tired crowd.

"I couldn't see anything of my fireman. I whistled for him for a while, and then got a brakeman to fire for me. We happened to be going east that time.

"I didn't learn till the next day what had happened to my fireman. It seems while I was gone, he had laid down on the grass behind a wood pile beside the track to rest. The sun was shining. When he awoke the sun was still shining. The train was gone. He saw a native and asked where the train was.

"What train?"

"The one that carried Shackleton's men."

"Why, that train left yesterday morning and it's now 2:30 in the afternoon."

"Up and down that 100 miles of track we went, and if it hadn't been for occasional skirmishes and the sound of shots I would have begun to suspect that Morgan wasn't in that part of the country."

"But Shackleton wasn't the kind of a man to give up, and the men were on their mettle. Morgan was getting tired, I guess, for Saturday they caught him. That was at Smith's Ferry. I was four miles from the battle, but I could hear the firing.

"All that week I had not seen a bed or taken off my clothes. I had had little cat-naps on the engine or alongside the track, but that was all. During the last two days I was like a man in a dream."

"The men came back with the prisoners. They were a rough looking lot, in rags, dirty, hungry and sullen. Not one of them had seen a razor for months."

"I saw Morgan, and he was a fine picture of a man—not much over medium height, but powerfully built and wiry. He was bearded like the rest. "The prisoners were to be taken to Columbus, and I took the train as far as Wellsville, where the river division connects with the main line. There I turned the engine over to another engineer and caught the first train into Pittsburg. I reached my boarding house late Saturday morning, and went straight to bed.

"I told them to call me for supper, and they tried to. But cannon wouldn't have disturbed me then. They shook and pounded me, but it was no use."

"When I woke up it was Sunday afternoon, and I had slept more than 24 hours. I never saw Morgan but that once. He dug his way out of the prison at Columbus and escaped to lead other raids, but I venture to say he never had quite such an experience as when I chased him up and down the river division a week without stopping."

SERMON TO CHILDREN

Rev. D. W. McQuiston Uses a Novel Method of Illustrating His Sunday Morning Discourse.

The sermon to children preached yesterday morning by Rev. D. W. McQuiston, at the Second United Presbyterian church, was most unique and interesting and was heard by a large congregation, composed mostly of youngsters. The minister talked upon the subject, "Boys We Meet on the Street," and his method of illustrating the many kinds of boys impressed his young hearers vividly. The boys were represented by bottles which were filled with different colored fluids, from the clearest to the darkest. The boys in the congregation were quick to divine that the clear bottle represented the good boy and that the bad ones were shown by the darker fluids. Replying to the minister's questions the boys gave the particular sin that was represented by the different colors. At the conclusion of this part of the sermon the minister by the use of a chemical that made clear the contents of all the bottles showed the cleaning power of the Spirit.

The evening sermon, upon the subject, "Samson Shorn of His Hair," was heard by a large and appreciative congregation.

Mrs. T. W. McCain, chairman of one of the committees, has requested that all contributions from the East End be left at the Chambers store on Mulberry street by Wednesday noon. Arrangements have been made for the transportation of all contributions from the store to the hospital building.

RUNAWAYS HOME

Gang of Small Boys Out For a Tramp Returned on a Freight Train Yesterday.

The dozen or more small boys who left town on a freight train a few days ago, returned Sunday evening, much to the relief of anxious relatives. They hit town on an afternoon freight train with none missing or injured, but with a general longing for the square meals and soft beds at home. Henry Green, alleged to be the leader of the band, also returned.

It is stated the boys hit freight trains as far as Ravenna and returned in the same way over a different route. They claim they had no intention of going to St. Louis for the exposition.

A Big Attendance.

The preparatory service to Banner day at the Second Presbyterian church brought forth the largest Sunday school attendance in its history, the enrollment showing 192 pupils and nine visitors. Banner day will be observed next Sunday. The morning and evening sermons by Rev. N. M. Crowe were heard by large congregations.

ACTOR RINGS CURTAIN.

Worn Out by Illness and Poverty He Turns on the Gas.

Detroit, March 21.—Robert Leeland, an actor and writer of melodramas, was found dead in his room. He had committed suicide by stuffing up every crack and crevice in the room and turning on the gas. Leeland, who was 30 years of age, is said by one of his friends to be the son of a wealthy banker in Salt Lake City named Smedley.

Leeland's preparations had been most careful. He even removed the tip from the gas jet to insure a rapid flow. He left a note on the table in the room, saying:

"My only request is that I be buried here at the expense of the city. I have no money. I have spent many hundreds of dollars while here as a member of various theatrical companies. Don't notify my parents, it is unnecessary."

On the back of this note he had written that weakness and illness as the result of an operation for appendicitis and an attack of typhoid fever had incapacitated him for work.

Salt Lake City, March 21.—Robert Leeland's real name is William Burns Smedley. He is the son of William E. Smedley, a wealthy banker and insurance man of this city.

BREAKFAST POISONED.

Cincinnati Woman Dies and Servant Girl is Under Arrest.

Cincinnati, March 21.—Mrs. Daniel D. Bowdle of this city is dead and her husband and two daughters are seriously ill from poison, which the coroner and the attending physician say is arsenic and which was eaten in a breakfast food.

The food was purchased in an original package at a nearby grocery and was prepared by the family cook, Agnes Manning. The cook ate none of the food nor did the younger daughter of the family, and neither became ill. The cook has been under close questioning by the physician and by the police. She protests her innocence, but has been arrested on suspicion.

The police say the girl has been taken into custody merely as a precaution and that they are positive that Mrs. Bowdle herself prepared the breakfast food which contained the poison. Two vessels were found in the pantry which contained the food. One was poisoned for rats and the other filled with good food. It is the theory of the police that Mrs. Bowdle by mistake took the wrong dish.

EXCITING CHASE AFTER MORGAN

A Veteran Engineer Tells of His Pursuit of the Rebel Raider.

UP AND DOWN THE TRACK

For a Week Without Rest He Pushed His Engine Until the Welcome News Came That the Band Had Been Caught.

John C. Shimmion, ruddy faced, gray haired, broad of shoulder and lank of limb, runs the flyer over the C. & P. between Cleveland and Pittsburg. He has been an engineer on the C. & P. for over 40 years.

Shimmion has a good story which he will tell, if you find him in the mood. It is the story of Morgan, the Raider. He has other stories, stories of the throttle, and all of them good, but the story of Morgan the Raider is the best of all.

You see, Morgan and his dare-devils had crossed the Ohio on one of those raids of his and now wanted to get back into Virginia. Gen. Shackleton was trying to head him off. It was very much like a game of tag, and if it hadn't been for John Shimmion—

But let me tell you the story as he told it to me, standing with his broad shoulders pressed against one of the powerful drivers of his engine, with his cap on his head and his gauntlets on his hands, smeared with oil on his overalls, a smudge of it on his weather-beaten cheek and an oil can caught in the crook of his arm.

Shimmion chuckled as his thoughts galloped back to the time when a young engineer named Shimmion, who was little more than a boy, chased that brave and spectacular cavalryman up and down the length of the river division of the C. & P. for a whole week without stopping—and caught him on the seventh day along with 600 of his saddle-weary men.

"Tell you about Morgan?" he asked. "I don't mind, though it happened so long ago that my memory may play me tricks. This was the way of it. In those days I was running the Mingo freight over the river division and hauling soldier trains. It was on a Sunday night that I left Pittsburg for Martin's Ferry. On the train were Gen. Shackleton and his men, who hoped to get to Martin's Ferry before Morgan did, as it had been reported he would try to cross the river there into Virginia.

"We of the north couldn't forgive Morgan for the scare he had given us. When we got to Martin's Ferry, Morgan had given the Black Horse Cavalry, which was chasing him, the slip, and had doubled on his tracks. "Gen. Shackleton ordered his men back aboard the train. I threw the 'old girl' wide open and we pounded east as fast as steam would carry us. At each station farmers were waiting for us. They had ridden into town on sweating horses to report that Morgan had just passed through and had helped himself to fresh horses and food. We went to Steubenville and to Portland and at both places found that Morgan was just ahead of us.

"The river division is a little short of 100 miles long and follows the course of the river. The east terminal is Mingo Junction. Before we reached the end of the division we learned that Morgan had given us the slip again and was traveling back west.

"The Black Horse cavalry was always on his heels, but could never quite catch up with him, for the reason that Morgan helped himself to fresh horses whenever he needed them while the mounts of the Black Horse men were jaded by hours of rough travel.

"Back went the train and Shackleton's men to the west end of the division, then back again to the east end. "Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday seemed no nearer to catching Morgan than when we started. Thursday morning the troops had left the train and started off on the run across country, as it was reported that Morgan was but a few miles away.

"Neither my fireman nor I had had any sleep since Sunday, and the boy was complaining that he was giving out. While the soldiers were away I walked to a nearby telegraph station for orders. The soldiers got back the same time I did. Gad! they were a tired crowd.

"I couldn't see anything of my fireman. I whistled for him for a while, and then got a brakeman to fire for me. We happened to be going east that time.

"I didn't learn till the next day what had happened to my fireman. It seems while I was gone, he had laid down on the grass behind a wood pile beside the track to rest. The sun was shining. When he awoke the sun was still shining. The train was gone. He saw a native and asked where the train was.

"What train?" "The one that carried Shackleton's men."

"Why, that train left yesterday morning and it's now 2:30 in the afternoon."

"Up and down that 100 miles of track we went, and if it hadn't been for occasional skirmishes and the sound of shots I would have begun to suspect that Morgan wasn't in that part of the country."

"But Shackleton wasn't the kind of a man to give up, and the men were on their mettle. Morgan was getting tired, I guess, for Saturday they caught him. That was at Smith's Ferry. I was four miles from the battle, but I could hear the firing."

"All that week I had not seen a bed or taken off my clothes. I had had little cat-naps on the engine or alongside the track, but that was all. During the last two days I was like a man in a dream."

"The men came back with the prisoners. They were a rough looking lot, in rags, dirty, hungry and sullen. Not one of them had seen a razor for months."

"I saw Morgan, and he was a fine picture of a man—not much over medium height, but powerfully built and wiry. He was bearded like the rest. "The prisoners were to be taken to Columbus, and I took the train as far as Wellsville, where the river division connects with the main line. There I turned the engine over to another engineer and caught the first train into Pittsburg. I reached my boarding house late Saturday morning, and went straight to bed.

"I told them to call me for supper, and they tried to. But cannon wouldn't have disturbed me then. They shot, and pounded me, but it was no use."

"When I woke up it was Sunday afternoon, and I had slept more than 24 hours. I never saw Morgan but that once. He dug his way out of the prison at Columbus and escaped to lead other raids, but I venture to say he never had quite such an experience as when I chased him up and down the river division a week without stopping."

If Twenty Millions of our people had Smallpox, Typhoid Fever or Cholera, what a cyclone of excitement and horror would sweep over the land. What a rush to get away from it, and what a mighty effort would be made to stamp it out.

Yet CATARRH is worse than either of them. They do their work quick and it is over; while Catarrh hangs on forever and leads to sure death in some form unless the germs are destroyed and driven from the system. These germs or microbes entrench themselves in the deep and tortuous passages of the head. Brazilian Balm boldly attacks them in their stronghold and compels a surrender of the last microbe. Senator Heinlein's bill to provide a state hospital for tuberculosis patients is reported to be unopposed. Certainly there can be no valid reason for objecting; its purpose is in every way laudable and commendable. The state board of health has lately taken up the question of the prevention of tuberculosis, and largely through its efforts a society has been organized with similar aims in view. The establishment of a state hospital would be a most helpful adjunct and would serve to place Ohio well to the front among the states which are taking active measures to combat one of the most deadly of human ailments. Mr. Heinlein says of the movement: "It means the prolongation of life to many unfortunates, and there are many members of the legislature who hold the opinion that it is better to build a hospital for a sick man than to scatter money in monuments to those who are dead." This, certainly, is an argument which there is no gainsaying.

There is ground for rejoicing in the report that comes from Utah that the young Mormons of that state propose to educate their parents and elders in obedience to the laws and to leave the church in case the church hierarchy refuses to heed their demand for reform. They realize that Utah got into the union under false pretense, and propose that the blame for this state of affairs shall be placed where it belongs. The senate investigation has aroused indignation all through the country against the duplicity and depravity of the Mormon leaders, and the fact that this indignation is shared by the progressive young men of the church augurs well for the success of the movement that is bound to be inaugurated to compel all the people of Utah to live and act as civilized white people should.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Matilda D. Cope.

Mrs. Matilda Duvall Cope, who would have been 85 years old had she lived until May 6 next, died at the home of her son, Samuel S. Cope, Main street, Wellsville, Saturday night. Heart exhaustion was the cause of death. The funeral services will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. L. F. Lavery officiating. Interment will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Cope was born on her father's farm, three miles west of Wellsville, May 6, 1819. Her maiden name was Matilda D. Swearingen. She married Henry Cope May 20, 1840, in the same house in which she died. Mr. Cope was born in Fayette county, Pa., and came to Wellsville in 1833, starting in the dry goods business. In 1839 he went into the hardware business under the firm name of Henry & S. Cope. The Cope Hardware company of Main street is the outcome of this business.

Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Cope. They are: Webster, Verlinde, Samuel, Harriet, Amy, Henry, Winfield, Warren and Mary. All these are dead except Samuel, Harriet and Mary, all of whom live at the Main street home.

"Mother" Cope, as she was known to many, was a member of the Presbyterian church of Wellsville for 45 years. During her younger days she took an active part in all church and

SCHISM IN PROSPECT

Younger Members of Mormon Church Demand Obedience to Laws.

SHOCKED BY SMITH'S STORY

Demand Radical Change in Attitude of Church Toward Polygamy or Will Leave It—Fight to Come at Conference.

Salt Lake, March 21.—Young Mormons throughout the state of Utah have united in a movement having for its object the enforcement of the pledges given to the government when Utah became a member of the sisterhood of states.

These young Mormons are vehement in the assertion that the law must be observed by the members of the Mormon hierarchy as well as by other citizens. As a result of this movement, which already number some 500 young men in the ranks, the practice of living by the high officers of the Mormon church must be abandoned or else these young Mormons the very flower of the sect, will leave the church. This is the ultimatum that is to be given to the Mormon hierarchy at the general conference of the Saints, to be held here next month.

When Joseph J. Smith, president of the church openly declared before the senate committee on privileges and elections at Washington that he was living with his five wives, in defiance of the law, and above all, that he proposed continuing to do so, the younger element in the Mormon church revolted. This element is opposed to polygamy in so far as it affects their own lives. In addition they are in favor of fulfilling to the people of the United States the promises that were given to the government of the United States when Utah was admitted to the union. These young Mormons are thoroughly American and they are not at all plessed by the notoriety which the state has received as a result of the disclosures at the Smoot hearing.

NEW ENGLAND JARRED.

Earthquake Shakes Down Chimneys Throughout Several States.

Boston, March 21.—An earthquake this morning caused tremors throughout the entire eastern section of New England. Beginning at St. John, N. B., the seismic vibrations traversed the state of Maine, causing some slight damage to buildings in Augusta, Bangor and Portland. The shock was felt plainly as far south as Taunton in this state. Reports from Manchester, N. H., and Springfield, Mass., state that the vibrations were felt distinctly in those two cities.

Observers at the Harvard University astronomical observatory in Cambridge felt the shock. At Augusta, Maine, chimneys were shaken down and crockery was smashed. The vibrations lasted several seconds and in nearly every instance occurred about four minutes after one o'clock.

WORK OF AN ANARCHIST.

Infernal Machine Outrage in Belgium Blamed on Printer.

London, March 21.—A despatch from Brussels to a news agency here says the police believe that the explosion of a dynamite bomb in front of the residence of the commissioner of police at Liege, resulting in the wrecking of the house, the killing of an artillery officer and the serious wounding of a half dozen other persons, was the work of an anarchist printer, whom they have arrested.

This printer recently distributed handbills urging the murder of the Bourgeois in revenge for the expulsion of the anarchists from Belgium.

Senator Heinlein's bill to provide a state hospital for tuberculosis patients is reported to be unopposed. Certainly there can be no valid reason for objecting; its purpose is in every way laudable and commendable. The state board of health has lately taken up the question of the prevention of tuberculosis, and largely through its efforts a society has been organized with similar aims in view. The establishment of a state hospital would be a most helpful adjunct and would serve to place Ohio well to the front among the states which are taking active measures to combat one of the most deadly of human ailments. Mr. Heinlein says of the movement: "It means the prolongation of life to many unfortunates, and there are many members of the legislature who hold the opinion that it is better to build a hospital for a sick man than to scatter money in monuments to those who are dead." This, certainly, is an argument which there is no gainsaying.

There is ground for rejoicing in the report that comes from Utah that the young Mormons of that state propose to educate their parents and elders in obedience to the laws and to leave the church in case the church hierarchy refuses to heed their demand for reform. They realize that Utah got into the union under false pretense, and propose that the blame for this state of affairs shall be placed where it belongs. The senate investigation has aroused indignation all through the country against the duplicity and depravity of the Mormon leaders, and the fact that this indignation is shared by the progressive young men of the church augurs well for the success of the movement that is bound to be inaugurated to compel all the people of Utah to live and act as civilized white people should.

Younger Members of Mormon Church Demand Obedience to Laws.

SHOCKED BY SMITH'S STORY

Demand Radical Change in Attitude of Church Toward Polygamy or Will Leave It—Fight to Come at Conference.

Salt Lake, March 21.—Young Mormons throughout the state of Utah have united in a movement having for its object the enforcement of the pledges given to the government when Utah became a member of the sisterhood of states.

These young Mormons are vehement in the assertion that the law must be observed by the members of the Mormon hierarchy as well as by other citizens. As a result of this movement, which already number some 500 young men in the ranks, the practice of living by the high officers of the Mormon church must be abandoned or else these young Mormons the very flower of the sect, will leave the church. This is the ultimatum that is to be given to the Mormon hierarchy at the general conference of the Saints, to be held here next month.

When Joseph J. Smith, president of the church openly declared before the senate committee on privileges and elections at Washington that he was living with his five wives, in defiance of the law, and above all, that he proposed continuing to do so, the younger element in the Mormon church revolted. This element is opposed to polygamy in so far as it affects their own lives. In addition they are in favor of fulfilling to the people of the United States the promises that were given to the government of the United States when Utah was admitted to the union. These young Mormons are thoroughly American and they are not at all plessed by the notoriety which the state has received as a result of the disclosures at the Smoot hearing.

NEW ENGLAND JARRED.

Earthquake Shakes Down Chimneys Throughout Several States.

Boston, March 21.—An earthquake this morning caused tremors throughout the entire eastern section of New England. Beginning at St. John, N. B., the seismic vibrations traversed the state of Maine, causing some slight damage to buildings in Augusta, Bangor and Portland. The shock was felt plainly as far south as Taunton in this state. Reports from Manchester, N. H., and Springfield, Mass., state that the vibrations were felt distinctly in those two cities.

Observers at the Harvard University astronomical observatory in Cambridge felt the shock. At Augusta, Maine, chimneys were shaken down and crockery was smashed. The vibrations lasted several seconds and in nearly every instance occurred about four minutes after one o'clock.

WORK OF AN ANARCHIST.

Infernal Machine Outrage in Belgium Blamed on Printer.

London, March 21.—A despatch from Brussels to a news agency here says the police believe that the explosion of a dynamite bomb in front of the residence of the commissioner of police at Liege, resulting in the wounding of a half dozen other persons, was the work of an anarchist printer, whom they have arrested.

This printer recently distributed handbills urging the murder of the Bourgeois in revenge for the expulsion of the anarchists from Belgium.

two lowest bidders will be retained for the present. In all the bids there was but $1,001 difference. Contractor Murdoch, who bid $10,874 for the work, was just $126 lower than the next bid, which was $11,000.

It is not likely that the contract will be let this evening, as several matters are to be taken into consideration before the final decision of the trustees is rendered. Mr. Murdoch is a well-known Wellsville contractor and promises to have the new station finished four months after work has been started. Other bidders say they can complete the task anywhere from 60 to 120 days.

It is expected that councilman-at-large, David McDonald, of the Fourth ward, will resign from council about April 1. That he is considering such a step is confirmed by himself.

POLICE GET BUSY; MANY ARE CAUGHT

WORKHOUSE SENTENCE IS GIVEN ONE VICTIM.

Salineville Men With Big Guns Are Caught While Fighting—Others Arrested.

What is considered a new record in police business was the amount handled last week by the Wellsville police. There was one, or more arrests every day, and the business of Saturday exceeded that of any other day. The report of Mayor Fogo for the month of March will likely exceed that of any other since he has been in office, providing the present volume of business continues.

William Smith, who was arrested by Patrolman Russell Thursday is the first to be given a workhouse sentence for many months. Smith and his wife were sent to the county infirmary by Mayor Weaver, of East Liverpool, last fall. It is claimed he was intoxicated when he landed there. He came back and located in Wellsville. Again he became unruly and was sent to the Canton workhouse by Mayor Fogo. He was released from there only a short time ago, and last week demolished some furniture his hard-working wife gathered and fought her. He has been fined $25 and costs by Mayor Fogo for this and was to be taken to the workhouse by Chief Houser today. He is up for about 55 days.

"Skinny" Green has been fined $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. He is working his fine and costs out in the jail.

John Nicholas was a victim of Patrolman Thornton Saturday night. He was acting in a manner unbecoming a gentleman on Front street. He was fined $5, which he paid, and left for Pittsburgh yesterday morning.

John Turner and Thomas E. Goddard, of Salineville, rolled into Wellsville Saturday at noon and visited many saloons in the East End. Word was sent to the police that the men were carrying concealed weapons—revolvers. They also got drunk. Later they commenced to fight. That was their finish. Patrolman Thornton waded into the scrap and succeeded in landing Turner. A revolver with four 38-caliber bullets in it was found on the man.

Goddard got away from Thornton, but was soon captured afterwards by Chief Houser. He is also said to have had a gun and threw this away just as the officer was about to arrest him. Goddard is a member of an East Liverpool fraternal organization, and had a return coupon to Salineville. He also had $6.35. A small book filled with smutty reading was found on his person and this will not likely be given him.

Turner was fined $5 for being drunk, while he was assessed $14 for carrying concealed weapons. Mayor Fogo retained the gun.

Goddard was fined $5 for intoxication. Both were released. The police failed to locate a revolver Goddard is said to have thrown away.

Amanda Logan was drunk Saturday night. She was put in for safe keeping by Patrolman Williams, who walked her from Third street. She was given the usual dose.

Ernest Powell was the victim of Patrolman Melvane. He was drunk and disorderly and was hauled to jail in the patrol. He was to pay $6 for his sport.

Another victim of Patrolman Williams was an Italian with a big name. He was also drunk and put up $5 at his hearing.

Fred Morgan was also put in Saturday night by Patrolman Williams. Being drunk and acting disorderly on the streets was the charge against him. The usual fine was assessed at his hearing.

The fourth victim of Williams Saturday night was Joe Cusick. He wore a plain jag and was assessed $5.

Antonio Carozza, a New Castle (Pa.) Italian, was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Henthorne. He was fighting with another foreigner in the West End. Mayor Fogo fined him $5.

The hearing of Edward Geisse, charged with assault and battery, has been deferred. The case will probably be disposed of this week.

In all eight arrests were made Saturday night, and the patrol made two runs. The record was held by Patrolman Williams, while the other officers had one each to their credit.

TO ASK FOR WINE ROOM ORDINANCE

WELLSVILLE COUNCIL SAID TO FAVOR SUCH MEASURE.

Question Will Probably Be Discussed at Session Tonight, When Committee Is Asked for Ordinance.

Ordinances governing wine rooms will probably be presented in council this evening, or at least the ordinance committee will be asked to draft one. This was said to be the intention of one councilman, who, it is claimed, will ask for such an ordinance this evening.

It has been known for some time that certain city officials were considering a wine room measure, but all that has been done in the matter has been kept secret. If present plans do not miscarry, councilmen tonight will ask the ordinance committee to draft a measure eliminating wine rooms from saloons. The ordinance committee is composed of Councilmen O'Grady, Blackburn and McDonald. The wine room ordinance as presented to the East Liverpool council is looked upon with favor by some councilmen, and it may be that one similar to it will be asked for Wellsville.

Mayor Fogo is known to favor the East Liverpool ordinance, and has spoken of the measure being a good one. He has also complimented Mayor Weaver for presenting the ordinance.

"Wine rooms should be abolished," said Mayor Fogo today, "and I believe an ordinance to that effect if introduced in council would be looked upon with favor. I do not favor wine rooms, and believe that it is an evil that should be placed under the ban. There is no law now either in the city code or state laws against wine rooms, and all measures tending to abolish the rooms will have to be done by an ordinance passed by council."

One councilman said that wine rooms were a disgrace to a city, and that they did no good to a community in which they were located.

Just how all the members of council stand on this question is not said, but those that have been seen favor the plan to have the rooms abolished.

tion of the new pumping station, there was not sufficient funds available for the work. This is false, and according to a statement of City Auditor McGregor, there is ample money available to complete the work under the lowest contract price, $10,874. There is little over $11,000 in the fund for this purpose.

A BUSY SESSION OF COUNCIL IS PLANNED

Railroad Measures, Postoffice Differences and Other Business Will Be Considered Tonight.

Council has been called in special session for this evening by Mayor Fogo. The exclusive publication in this paper Thursday last of the intended action of the postal department to move from the city building, is the primary cause for this. Protests have been filed with councilmen and other city officials to try and settle the matter, and considering these appeals, council has been called together.

The ordinance establishing a grade in Nicholson alley, which is said to be held up by the ordinance committee, will likely be disposed of tonight. This matter has gone too far to suit council, as they contend there is no reason for the ordinance to be held up. The city granted the Belt road a franchise, and told the railroad company that the grade of the alley would be given when desired. It is now up to the city to deliver the goods.

There is also a batch of other business that will receive consideration, and the session gives promise of being the warmest held for months.

CHOKED TO DEATH BY THE ROADSIDE

Young Man Mysteriously Murdered on a Highway Near Niles.

Niles, March 21.—Henry Booth, 18 years old, a hostler employed in the livery stables of G. W. Blake, was killed Saturday evening on the lonely road, near Salt Springs, 12 miles from here. No arrests have been made, and the police are said to have no clues. Booth was sent to Salt Springs to carry William Messer, a railroad employee, home after his week's work. He left Messer at his home and started back.

Evidence goes to show that Booth was attacked by an unknown party, dragged from the carriage and choked to death on the roadside. The rig was found by a young man just before midnight.

Booth's body was found by the side of the road yesterday morning by John James, a farmer, near his home. Booth had some money when he left the stables, but the pockets were empty when the body was found. The young man came here from Columbus a few months ago. His throat was terribly scarred by the hand of his assailant.

WORKHOUSE SENTENCE IS GIVEN ONE VICTIM.

Salineville Men With Big Guns Are Caught While Fighting—Others Arrested.

What is considered a new record in police business was the amount handled last week by the Wellsville police. There was one, or more arrests every day, and the business of Saturday exceeded that of any other day. The report of Mayor Fogo for the month of March will likely exceed that of any other since he has been in office, providing the present volume of business continues.

William Smith, who was arrested by Patrolman Russell Thursday is the first to be given a workhouse sentence for many months. Smith and his wife were sent to the county infirmary by Mayor Weaver, of East Liverpool, last fall. It is claimed he was intoxicated when he landed there. He came back and located in Wellsville. Again he became unruly and was sent to the Canton workhouse by Mayor Fogo. He was released from there only a short time ago, and last week demolished some furniture his hard-working wife gathered and fought her. He has been fined $25 and costs by Mayor Fogo for this and was to be taken to the workhouse by Chief Houser today. He is up for about 55 days.

"Skinny" Green has been fined $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. He is working his fine and costs out in the jail.

John Nicholas was a victim of Patrolman Thornton Saturday night. He was acting in a manner unbecoming a gentleman on Front street. He was fined $5, which he paid, and left for Pittsburgh yesterday morning.

John Turner and Thomas E. Goddard, of Salineville, rolled into Wellsville Saturday at noon and visited many saloons in the East End. Word was sent to the police that the men were carrying concealed weapons—revolvers. They also got drunk. Later they commenced to fight. That was their finish. Patrolman Thornton waded into the scrap and succeeded in landing Turner. A revolver with four 38-caliber bullets in it was found on the man.

Goddard got away from Thornton, but was soon captured afterwards by Chief Houser. He is also said to have had a gun and threw this away just as the officer was about to arrest him. Goddard is a member of an East Liverpool fraternal organization, and had a return coupon to Salineville. He also had $6.35. A small book filled with smutty reading was found on his person and this will not likely be given him.

Turner was fined $5 for being drunk, while he was assessed $14 for carry-

tion of the new pumping station, there was not sufficient funds available for the work. This is false, and according to a statement of City Auditor McGregor, there is ample money available to complete the work under the lowest contract price, $10,874. There is little over $11,000 in the fund for this purpose.

A BUSY SESSION OF COUNCIL IS PLANNED

Railroad Measures, Postoffice Differences and Other Business Will Be Considered Tonight.

Council has been called in special session for this evening by Mayor Fogo. The exclusive publication in this paper Thursday last of the intended action of the postal department to move from the city building, is the primary cause for this. Protests have been filed with councilmen and other city officials to try and settle the matter, and considering these appeals, council has been called together.

The ordinance establishing a grade in Nicholson alley, which is said to be held up by the ordinance committee, will likely be disposed of tonight. This matter has gone too far to suit council, as they contend there is no reason for the ordinance to be held up. The city granted the Belt road a franchise, and told the railroad company that the grade of the alley would be given when desired. It is now up to the city to deliver the goods.

There is also a batch of other business that will receive consideration, and the session gives promise of being the warmest held for months.

CONTRACT MAY GO TO WELLSVILLE MAN

Water Works Trustees Will Go Over Bids—Checks to Be Returned Those Who Lost Work.

Bids which were opened by the water works trustees Saturday noon for the completion of the new pumping station will be considered at a meeting of the trustees tonight. Emmett Gerren was not present at the session Saturday, but he will be there this evening. Certified checks, which accompanied all bids, will be returned to the two highest bidders, while those checks which were given by the

CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Pays All Its Debts, and Arranges to Hold the County Primaries This Week.

The Wellsville Republican central committee met in council chamber Saturday evening, and paid all its old debts, amounting to $52.98. Every member of the committee was present. The polling places for the county primary election, which will be held March 25, will be the same as at the city primary election, with the exception of the third ward. This polling place was at the Thirtieth street patrol house, and is considered by some not a convenient place. The new polling place is left with the members of the central committee of that ward.

The committee will also hold another meeting this evening. Some detail matters concerning the county work is to be canvassed, and all matters for the next primary election will be completed.

Italians Seek Lost Funds.

Fifteen Italians called on Mayor Fogo Saturday afternoon wanting compensation for labor on the new pumping station. They were employed by the Duquesne Construction company, of Pittsburgh. When the firm quit work in Wellsville the laborers were not paid, so they claim. Mayor Fogo heard their story, and referred them to the water works trustees. The trustees told them to call this morning. As the city has naught to do with their claims, the trouble will probably be carried into court, as the Italians propose to retain an attorney.

New Fire Boxes Arrive.

The two new fire alarm boxes ordered by the board of safety at a recent meeting from the Gamewell people, arrived in Wellsville Saturday. They are boxes No. 22 and 36.

Box No. 22 will be located at Tenth and Commerce streets, while box 36 will be placed on Kelly avenue, near Clark avenue. It is proposed to extend the fire alarm system, and this will be done as soon as possible.

Runion's Team Runs Away.

A team of horses owned by Hal Runion ran off Saturday evening and as a result the wagon was badly damaged. One of the horses was slightly injured. The team was standing on Commerce street awaiting the wagon to be loaded with hay. The driver was in the second story of a barn, and when the team started he jumped to the ground and had his left hand injured.

Bazaar is a Success.

The bazaar given for two nights in the Wellsville city hall closed Saturday evening. It was a success in every way, and it is thought that about $150 has been obtained for the parsonage site fund. The affair was in charge of the ladies of the Methodist Protestant church, who deserve great credit for their work.

Works on Western Waters.

Charles O. Morgan, son of Conductor A. C. Morgan, of the United Power company's freight car, has written his father that he is now chief engineer on the City of Camden, a large freight and passenger packet running out of New Orleans. This boat operates on the Mississippi, Wichita and Red rivers.

Morgan left for New Orleans a few weeks ago and proposes to remain in the south as a marine engineer.

Will Preach at Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Caulk, of the Church of the Ascension, will go to Toronto this evening, where he will assist Rev. Edwin Weary, of St. Stephen's church, of East Liverpool, in a communion service at the Episcopal mission at Toronto. Both will return to their homes tomorrow.

Young Men's Club.

Young men of the Methodist Episcopal church will form a young men's club if present plans do not fail. Rev. J. W. Toland has announced that he will meet with the young men of the church for this purpose, in the lecture room of the church next Friday evening.

AT THE THEATER

Tonight, "Under Sealed Orders" deals with love and intrigue in the secret service office of the British government. Incidental to the running down on Algerian soil of a notorious French criminal and hypnotist, the influence which he has over the heroine who is beloved by two of the secret service officers, one a manly lover, the other a dishonorable person, forming a thrilling and attractive though more or less gruesome feature of the plot. Part of the stakes is the hidden hoard of diamonds accumulated by the criminal, and the respective efforts of the characters in the story to secure this treasure lend interest to the story. Of course, all ends well, and the audience goes home fully convinced that true love, courage and propriety bring their sure reward. Specialties will be introduced between acts. "Ladies' tickets" will be offered tonight (being the first time this season) with tickets purchased before 7 p. m.

CHOKED TO DEATH BY THE ROADSIDE

Young Man Mysteriously Murdered on a Highway Near Niles.

Niles, March 21.—Henry Booth, 18 years old, a hostler employed in the livery stables of G. W. Blake, was killed Saturday evening on the lonely road, near Salt Springs, 12 miles from here. No arrests have been made, and the police are said to have no clues. Booth was sent to Salt Springs to carry William Messer, a railroad employee, home after his week's work. He left Messer at his home and started back.

Evidence goes to show that Booth was attacked by an unknown party, dragged from the carriage and choked to death on the roadside. The rig was found by a young man just before midnight.

Booth's body was found by the side of the road yesterday morning by John James, a farmer, near his home. Booth had some money when he left the stables, but the pockets were empty when the body was found. The young man came here from Columbus a few months ago. His throat was terribly scarred by the hand of his assailant.

MERCURY

A POOR CRUTCH.

Experience is a dear teacher, as those who pin their faith to Mercury find out sooner or later. This powerful poison combined with Potash, is the treatment generally prescribed for Contagious Blood Poison, but failure and disappointment is the inevitable result. These minerals drive in the sores and eruptions, and apparently the disease is gone and the patient believes the cure permanent, but soon learns better when the old symptoms return almost as soon as the treatment is left off. You must either keep the system saturated with mercury or endure the tortures of sore mouth, ulcerated throat and the mortification that one naturally feels when the body is covered with disgusting sores, rashes, copper-colored spots and other aggravating symptoms of this vile disease.

Mercury and Potash are poor crutches, and their use eventually breaks down the constitution, ruins the digestion and cause the bones to decay.

S. S. S., a guaranteed purely vegetable remedy, is the only antidote for Contagious Blood Poison. It destroys every atom of the deadly virus, overcomes the bad effects of the mercury and cleanses the blood and system so thoroughly that never after are any signs of the disease seen. Nor is the taint ever transmitted to others.

We will send free our book on Contagious Blood Poison, which is interesting and contains full directions for treating yourself at home. Medical advice or any special information desired given without charge.

Russia Makes Protest to Japan Through French Minister at Tokio.

FIRE ON QUARANTINE STATION

During Engagement at Port Arthur, Russia Asserts, Fifty Projectiles From Japanese Fleet Damaged Property Classed as Neutral.

Paris, March 21.—The Russian embassy has handed to Foreign Minister Delcasse for transmission to the French minister at Tokio, who is entrusted with the protection of Russian interests in Japan, a protest against an alleged infraction of the laws of war. It appears that during the attack on Port Arthur March 10, the Japanese fired over 50 projectiles at the quarantine station on the island of San-Shan-Tao, resulting in the injury of numerous persons.

The Minister asks France to call Japan's attention to the matter, apart from the general protests contained in the recent Russian note to the powers.

St. Petersburg, March 21.—Vice Admiral Makaroff has reported the miraculous escape of four sailors from the torpedo boat destroyer

JAPANESE TORPEDO BOAT IN WINTER OFF PORT ARTHUR.

Stereguschel which foundered during the naval battle off Port Arthur, March 9. The men escaped by swimming when the boat sank and succeeded in keeping afloat until they were picked up.

The Metropolitan archbishop of St. Petersburg has sent an ikon to the torpedo boat Roshtelny, which in the conflict of March 9, managed to elude the Japanese fire. This ikon, it is believed will safeguard the boat from further harm.

No Change in the Situation. London, March 21.—Nothing has reached here to confirm the report that a battle has taken place on Yalu in which the Russians are alleged to claim that they captured 1800 prisoners.

A despatch from Petersburg says there has been no change in the situation and that all is quiet on both land and sea between the Russian line from Ping Yang to the Yalu river and the Japanese line to Gensan. There have been slight skirmishes between scouts, but no battle has taken place, as the distance between the opposing armies is great. The bulk of the Russian forces, the despatch adds, has not yet passed the Yalu river.

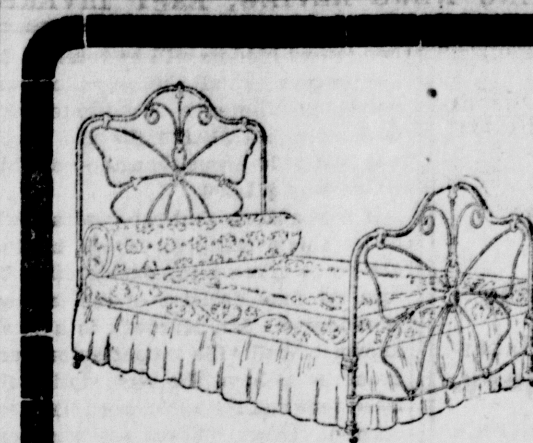

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the military authorities were startled by the attempt of the Japanese to land in Helena Bay as the nearest Russian force that could have been used against them consisted of three rifle regiments at New Chwang. The weather having hindered the Japanese landing, energetic measures are now being adopted to prevent such a descent. Among the other devices adopted has been the concentration of troops at Foo Chow, 22 miles south of Helena Bay.

In cabling the fact that all British and American residents at New Chwang must remain within the walls, a correspondent of the Daily Chronicle at New Chwang says:

Japanese Reconnoiter. "I was arrested while attempting to leave." The correspondent says it is reported that a Japanese squadron arrived at the mouth of the Liao river Saturday night and landed a party which after a reconnoitering re-embarked.

A correspondent of the Times at New Chwang cables as follows: "According to information received here the reason the Vladivostok fort did not reply to the bombardment by the Japanese was because the batteries were not provided with guns. Since the bombardment parties have been working night and day to place guns in position. The bombardment destroyed the Linevitch battery. The Russian losses were slight because the batteries were deserted. The same conditions prevailed at Vladivostok as at Port Arthur. The supply of provisions there is running short and the population is panic stricken. The ice is considered the only real protection."

The correspondent says that Vice Admiral Kamimura's bombardment

MERCURY

A POOR CRUTCH.

Experience is a dear teacher, as those who pin their faith to Mercury find out sooner or later. This powerful poison combined with Potash, is the treatment generally prescribed for Contagious Blood Poison, but failure and disappointment is the inevitable result. These minerals drive in the sores and eruptions, and apparently the disease is gone and the patient believes the cure permanent, but soon learns better when the old symptoms return almost as soon as the treatment is left off. You must either keep the system saturated with mercury or endure the tortures of sore mouth, ulcerated throat and the mortification that one naturally feels when the body is covered with disgusting sores, rashes, copper-colored spots and other aggravating symptoms of this vile disease.

Mercury and Potash are poor crutches, and their use eventually breaks down the constitution, ruins the digestion and causes the bones to decay. S. S. S., a guaranteed purely vegetable remedy, is the only antidote for Contagious Blood Poison. It destroys every atom of the deadly virus, overcomes the bad effects of the mercury and cleanses the blood and system so thoroughly that never after are any signs of the disease seen. Nor is the taint ever transmitted to others.

We will send free our book on Contagious Blood Poison, which is interesting and contains full directions for treating yourself at home. Medical advice or any special information desired given without charge.

Russia Makes Protest to Japan Through French Minister at Tokio.

FIRE ON QUARANTINE STATION

During Engagement at Port Arthur, Russia Asserts, Fifty Projectiles From Japanese Fleet Damaged Property Classed as Neutral.

Paris, March 21.—The Russian embassy has handed to Foreign Minister Delcasse for transmission to the French minister at Tokio, who is entrusted with the protection of Russian interests in Japan, a protest against an alleged infraction of the laws of war. It appears that during the attack on Port Arthur March 10, the Japanese fired over 50 projectiles at the quarantine station on the island of San-Shan-Tao, resulting in the injury of numerous persons.

The Minister asks France to call Japan's attention to the matter, apart from the general protest contained in the recent Russian note to the powers.

St. Petersburg, March 21.—Vice Admiral Makaroff has reported the miraculous escape of four sailors from the torpedo boat destroyer

JAPANESE TORPEDO BOAT IN WINTER OFF PORT ARTHUR.

Storage which foundered during the naval battle off Port Arthur, March 9. The men escaped by swimming when the boat sank and succeeded in keeping afloat until they were picked up.

The Metropolitan archbishop of St. Petersburg has sent an ikon to the torpedo boat Roshteln, which in the conflict of March 9, managed to elude the Japanese fire. This ikon, it is believed will safeguard the boat from further harm.

No Change in the Situation.

London, March 21.—Nothing has reached here to confirm the report that a battle has taken place on Yalu in which the Russians are alleged to claim that they captured 1800 prisoners.

A despatch from Petersburg says there has been no change in the situation and that all is quiet on both land and sea between the Russian line from Ping Yang to the Yalu river and the Japanese line to Gensan.

There have been slight skirmishes between scouts, but no battle has taken place, as the distance between the opposing armies is great. The bulk of the Russian forces, the despatch adds, has not yet passed the Yalu river.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the military authorities were startled by the attempt of the Japanese to land in Helena Bay as the nearest Russian force that could have been used against them consisted of three rifle regiments at New Chwang.

The weather having hindered the Japanese landing, energetic measures are now being adopted to prevent such a descent. Among the other devices adopted has been the concentration of troops at Foo Chow, 22 miles south of Helena Bay.

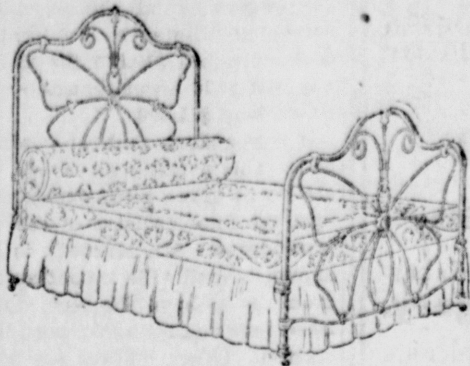

In cabling the fact that all British and American residents at New Chwang must remain within the walls, a correspondent of the Daily Chronicle at New Chwang says:

Japanese Reconnoiter.

"I was arrested while attempting to leave." The correspondent says it is reported that a Japanese squadron arrived at the mouth of the Liao river Saturday night and landed a party which after a reconnoitering reem-barked.

A correspondent of the Times at New Chwang cables as follows: "According to information received here the reason the Vladivostok force did not reply to the bombardment by the Japanese was because the batteries were not provided with guns. Since the bombardment parties have been working night and day to place guns in position. The bombardment destroyed the Linevitch battery. The Russian losses were slight because the batteries were deserted. The same conditions prevailed at Vladivostok as at Port Arthur. The supply of provisions there is running short and the population is panic stricken. The ice is considered the only real protection."

The correspondent says that Vice Admiral Kamimuras' bombardment

Hearts Courageous

CHAPTER XI.

THE tension in Virginia was grown thin. Again and again the burly Earl of Dunmore prodded the assembly on the pretext of popular excitement. The burgesses submitted with a bow, and the fiddles played in their town houses. Dunmore thought himself a diplomat and went on winning his Tory favorites at the palace. But under the music was an ominous muttering.

News came of the king's speech on the opening of parliament. The colonies protests were "unwarranted attempts to obstruct the commerce of this kingdom by unlawful combinations" and showed "a most daring spirit of resistance and disobedience to the law." This pronouncement was received in Williamsburg with an intense astonishment.

And what, meantime, had Henry been doing?

Restless, eager, he had ridden hither and thither like a shadow—over the courthouses calling the minutemen, overseeing the election of the committees recommended by the congress, at Albert's poring over lists with Jefferson, uniting north and south in a network of nerves, laboring, tireless and convincing.

It is a thing to note, since rebellion commonly springs from the people rather than from the quality, that it was contrary in Virginia. There the aristocracy was not Tory. There were few enough, like my Lord Fairfax, who, born noble, held nobly to their loyalty. Those who held with the king, besides the toad eaters, were for the most part the lower classes, officeholders, tradesmen who looked for sales, lawyers just over from London. The staunchest rebels were the great landed planters. Sedition was in the club room and the parlor. One must to the tavern bar for toasts to the king.

And so came about this strange thing: That Williamsburg, the miniature copy of the court of St. James, aping the manners of the royal palace, its old church graveyard and college chapel standing for Westminster abbey and St. Paul's—that this spot should prove "the heart of the rebellion." If this fact alone remained it might well make the world wonder at the enduring blindness of the king's ministers and whether God had not indeed covered their eyes because he would have it so. It was little George cared for the actions of the first congress, halting, ineffectual, or for the petitions of British merchants. He had set his jaw. In vain the Earl of Chatham moved in the house of lords to withdraw the troops from Boston. Instead the colonies received a bill offering pardon to repentant rebels, and the patriots of Virginia heard with shocked surprise that this expected Patrick Henry!

On the day this news was printed in the Williamsburg Gazette Henry and Jefferson met at Albert's and set out on horseback for Richmond. There, in St. John's church, the new Virginia convention, mindful of the bloody threats of the sinister governor, had elected to meet, and thither had gone a half of Williamsburg, leaving Dunmore with his troops at his palace to bite his nails in impotent anger.

The 23d of March dawned over Richmond's unwonted bustle in a quivering haze of intense blue, where cloud puffs swam like lazily pluming swans. Anne had arrived the night before at Goochland and drove in that morning in the Payne chariot. Spring was up, the earth quick with it. All along the way wild crab apple boughs drooped with clinging bees, and by the snake fence rows of peach trees had pitched their tents of bloom.

She met Henry in front of the Indian Queen inn and walked with him up toward the churchyard, now filling with a vast throng.

"Tell me," she questioned eagerly. "Will it come today?"

He looked down at her with that rare smile which seemed to be the higher part of him, gliding and transfiguring his other self. "What faith you have in me!" he said.

"I know," she answered. "I have seen it in your face. No one in Virginia can do it save you—none of them. It must be the voice before the arm."

"The spark before the explosion," he muttered, "and the train is nearly laid."

His hands moved restlessly. "I have longed—prayed—for some new overt act of Dunmore's that should be spark to powder. But he lies low. And it must come from us. You were right when you said that last fall at Winchester. Boston is trodden on, but she lies quiet. The colonies look to us. It is the voice of the south, of Virginia, that is wanting."

He stopped. Jefferson was hastening toward them. He bowed to Anne.

"Have you heard the buzz from London?" he asked Henry hurriedly. "Tis all among the delegates. 'Tis declared that our petitions to the king are graciously received, that all the acts will be repealed save the admiralty and declaratory and that North and Dartmouth will be replaced."

"Aye," burst Henry fiercely. "Another Tory tale! And they will waver again. Tom, Tom, it must be now or never!"

He stopped abruptly and strode across the churchyard over the matted ivy on the shrunken mounds and, threading his way between the old slate tombstones, upright like black leached coffin lids, entered the edifice.

From her seat in the west gallery, whither Jefferson had taken her, Anne surveyed the scene below.

The first proceedings interested her little—the reading of Jamaica's late memorial to the king—and her gaze wandered. Through the open windows she could hear the hum of the great crowd about the building and catch a glimmer of the foaming James. The space below her was packed and full of a strange intentness.

Here and there she could see faces which she knew. The ladies of Richmond were scattered through both galleries. Freneau and young St. George Tucker were leaning over the rail opposite. Jefferson and Colonel Benjamin Harrison of Berkeley sat together just below Peyton Randolph, the president.

Colonel Washington sat far back, hands on knees, quiet and meditating, and just below Mr. Thomas Nelson shifted nervously in his seat, turning his eyes now there, now here.

Well to the front sat Richard Henry Lee of Chantilly, "the gentleman of the silver hand." The black bandage he wore over his hand fascinated her. She had heard it said he wore it to hide a wound he got swan shooting on the Potomac.

Her attention came back with a start as she heard the resolution in answer to Jamaica that "it is the most ardent wish of this colony, and we are persuaded of the whole continent of North America, to see a speedy return to those halcyon days when we lived a free and happy people." As she looked down at Henry, Anne saw that he was scribbling on a scrap of paper.

There was a hush as he arose and a buzz of expectancy as he mounted the rostrum. He held in his hand the paper upon which he had been scribbling. Anne felt a touch of disappointment at the cold, measured quality of his tone. With that flickering half smile which meant dissent he moved an amendment to the Jamaica resolutions. He read without a gesture, in pronunciation as plain as homespun. His voice moved evenly, almost carelessly, over the periods.

But as he progressed the assembly awoke with a shock, and Anne saw a certain ripple almost of alarm surge over it. Henry had spoken the phrase, "our inestimable rights and liberties."

At that moment the speaker raised his voice, and the last words came challenge-like, the snap of a whip. "We do resolve, therefore, that this colony be put in a state of defense and that there be a committee to prepare a plan for embodying, arming and disciplining such a number of men as may be sufficient for that purpose."

Anne looked at Henry in the black clothes and the wig which set off his face and drew a breath. The humility, the diffidence, the modesty of address were gone, and in their place was sternness. Even his voice had grown harsh, as though in menace, and on the convention, uncertain and wavering, those lovers of the "halcyon days," the menace fell. It was the plunge from hesitation to resolve, from expostulation to powder. The fire had fallen!

Henry knew his men. All these years he had been learning them, drawing them out, questioning, story telling, watching effects, experimenting in their emotions.

His eye held every man within those walls. He turned it upon Richard Henry Lee, and he, his polished oratory forgot, hurled a blunt second at the chair.

Mr. Pendleton, Colonel Harrison, limping from the gout, and Colonel Richard Bland got upon their feet with arched brows, barking that such action was "premature," and at the word Anne saw a pale scorn burn Henry's face. These, who had so lately sat in the Continental congress, prated of "dignified patience," "bitter respect and discretion," "the relenting of the sovereign," "the nakedness of the colonies."

Anne had afterward no certain recollection of how Henry began in answer. All impression was swallowed up in that thrill which held every hearer. It has been said that he spoke as Homer wrote.

"Shall we shut our eyes—we wise men struggling for liberty—and listen to the song of the siren till she transforms us to beasts?" he cried. "Shall we, having eyes, see not, and having ears, hear not the tidings of our temporal salvation? For my part I will know the worst, and I will provide for it. I cannot judge the future but by the past, and by the past how shall you solve yourselves? What is there in the conduct of the British ministries of the past ten years to justify hope?"

As he went on passion crept over his face like the wind that precedes a storm; his lean neck was scarlet and corded with white lines, and his eyes glared hollowly.

"Do you regard the insidious smiles with which our petitions are received? Be not betrayed with a kiss!"

Sitting in a quiver of feeling, with fingers clasping the gallery ledge, Anne felt the shaken pulses of the audience. Under the intrepid metaphor she saw the messenger of the colonial assembly standing before the king's attorney general entreating that Virginia had souls to be saved as well as England, and the British answer: "D—your souls! Make tobacco." She saw the colonies supplicating on their knees, spurned, contemned, spit upon. She saw the chains forging, navies building, armies gathering. She saw British ministers, like harpies, with cold eyes upon the green of the Americas.

Henry's voice had risen louder, more intense, and his colorless features and eyes of fire had become terrible to look upon. He sat upon the whirlwind. The very walls seemed to rock with vibrations.

"There is no longer any room for hope. If we wish to be free, if we mean to preserve inviolate those privileges for which we have been so long contending, if we mean not basely to abandon the struggle we have vowed never to abandon until its object be obtained, then we must fight. We must fight! An appeal to arms, to the God of Hosts, is all that is left us."

Anne dragged her eyes from Henry's. Amid the sea there was one face that had not moved a line. It was Colonel Washington's. He sat stonelike, as immovable as a bishop at his prayers, his hands still upon his knees. He was as a soldier should be—cool of head and giving passion for the hand. And as a soldier he was slow to disengage. But cold as he seemed when Henry bent the wills of that assembly and whipped the conservatives to the wall, there was a glitter in his eye that leaped to flame behind the quiet mask.

German Bark Mona Also Badly Damaged in the Affair—Steamship New York Meets with Two Mishaps—Fouls a Troopship.

Dublin, March 21.—The German bark Mona collided with the English bark Lady Cairns off Dublin bay. The Lady Cairns sank in a few minutes. Her crew of 22 were drowned. The Mona, which was much damaged, was assisted into Dublin harbor.

Southampton, March 21.—The American line steamship New York for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Southampton, met with two mishaps, grounding off Cape La Hague, France, and later coming into collision in the English channel with the Peninsular and Oriental steamship Assaye, bound for Bombay with 500 troops on board. The New York grounded while approaching Cherbourg during a fog. The sea was smooth and the tide was on the flood and within an hour and a half the vessel was floated without assistance. Her bottom was damaged and there was water in the hold, but she was able to proceed.

During the voyage up the channel a dense fog descended. When off Hurst Castle, England, the Assaye suddenly appeared and it was found impossible to avoid a collision. The New York's bow crashed into the Assaye's starboard bow, tearing a great gap in that vessel. The New York's bowsprit and figurehead were carried away and the latter was smashed into fragments.

There was great excitement but no panic on either vessel. The boats of the Assaye were lowered and the troops were mustered, but the bulkheads of the troopship saved her. Both vessels were able to enter Southampton and the New York was docked for temporary repairs. Nobody was injured.

James Sellers, a passenger on the New York says that while he was at luncheon there was a grating noise followed by a tremendous shock. Everyone, he says, ran to the deck and it was found that the New York's bow was firmly fixed in the side of the Assaye. Mr. Sellers was close enough to observe the marvelous discipline aboard the troopship. Not a second was lost and there was no sign of hurry and while the boats were being prepared for launching, the soldiers were mustered with the precision of an ordinary drill.

"As the vessels parted," concluded Mr. Sellers, "we saw a gaping hole in the Assaye ten feet wide, and sticking on our stem was a portmanteau and other portable property. There was no panic on our boat. Had we struck the Assaye amidships she would have sunk."

CAR BARNS DESTROYED.

Incendiaries Believed to Have Started $150,000 Fire at Chicago.

Chicago, March 21.—Fire last night destroyed the Union Traction company's car barns at Division street and Western avenue causing a loss of $150,000. Five of the company's employees who were fighting the flames before the firemen arrived were imprisoned in the burning structure by a falling roof and all were painfully burned before they could be rescued.

More than fifty street cars were burned. The building was 250 feet long and 200 feet wide. This is the second of the Union traction company's barns to burn within a week and both fires are believed to have been of incendiary origin.

TROUBLE OVER MONEY.

Panama Puzzled What Attitude to Take Toward Silver.

Panama, March 21.—The monetary question here is causing much discussion. The partisans of the gold standard are apparently a majority in the nationalist assembly but the conservative element favors a system under which two silver dollars shall be equal to one gold dollar. Otherwise, it is claimed, the export of produce from the republic will be killed.

It is believed that the opinion of the United States may decide the matter, as the adoption of the gold standard would mean the doubling of the expense of the construction of the canal.

We Paid $100,000

For Liquezone—Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.

This Company, after testing Liquezone for two years in the most difficult germ diseases, paid $100,000 for the American rights. That is by far the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery.

We publish this fact to show you the value of Liquezone. Men of our class don't pay a price like that save for a product of remarkable worth to humanity.

Kills Inside Germs.

The reason for that price is this: Liquezone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues too. Nothing else in the world is so good for the human body; yet Liquezone is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill.

Liquezone destroys at once and forever the cause of any germ disease. And there is no other way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is helpless in troubles of this kind.

Not Medicine.

Liquezone is not made by compounding drugs. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, this gas is made part of the liquid product. Liquezone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does, the most essential element of life. Liquezone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. Its effects are exhilarating and purifying. But germs are vegetables; and Liquezone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Liquezone goes wherever the blood goes, destroying every germ in the body. In this way it cures diseases which medicine never cures. It will do more for sick humanity than all the drugs in the world combined.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquezone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

Asthma, Anemia, Bronchitis, Blood Poison, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Colic-Croup, Catarrh-Cancer, Dropsy, Hay Fever-Indigestion, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Leucorrhea, Liver Troubles, Malaria-Neuritis, Many Heart Troubles, Piles-Pneumonia, Pleurisy-Quincy, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Scrofula-Syphilis, Stomach Troubles.

Dyspepsia, Eczema, Keralpasia, FEVERS—Gall Stones, Colic—Gout, Gonorrhea—Gleet, Throat Troubles, Tuberculosis, Tumors, Erysipelas, Varicella, Women's Diseases.

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisonous blood. In nervous debility Liquezone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

Hearts Courageous

CHAPTER XI.

THE tension in Virginia was grown thin. Again and again the burly Earl of Dunmore prodded the assembly on the pretext of popular excitement. The burgesses submitted with a bow, and the fiddles played in their town houses. Dunmore thought himself a diplomat and went on winning his Tory favorites at the palace. But under the music was an ominous muttering.

News came of the king's speech on the opening of parliament. The colonies' protests were "unwarranted attempts to obstruct the commerce of this kingdom by unlawful combinations" and showed "a most daring spirit of resistance and disobedience to the law." This pronouncement was received in Williamsburg with an intense astonishment.

And what, meantime, had Henry been doing? Restless, eager, he had ridden hither and thither like a shadow—attending the election of the committees recommended by the congress, at Albert's poring over lists with Jefferson, uniting north and south in a network of nerves, laboring, tireless and concluding.

It is a thing to note, since rebellion commonly springs from the people rather than from the quality, that it was contrary in Virginia. There the aristocracy was not Tory. There were few enough, like my Lord Fairfax, who, born noble, held nobly to their loyalty. Those who held with the king, besides the tond eaters, were for the most part the lower classes, officeholders, tradesmen who looked for sales, lawyers just over from London. The staunchest rebels were the great landed planters. Sedition was in the club room and the parlor. One must to the tavern bar for toasts to the king.

And so came about this strange thing: That Williamsburg, the miniature copy of the court of St. James, aping the manners of the royal palace, its old church graveyard and college chapel standing for Westminster abbey and St. Paul's—that this spot should prove "the heart of the rebellion." If this fact alone remained it might well make the world wonder at the enduring blindness of the king's ministers and whether God had not indeed covered their eyes because he would have it so.

It was little George cared for the actions of the first congress, halting, ineffectual, or for the petitions of British merchants. He had set his jaw. In vain the Earl of Chatham moved in the house of lords to withdraw the troops from Boston. Instead the colonies received a bill offering pardon to repentant rebels, and the patriots of Virginia heard with shocked surprise that this exception Patrick Henry!

On the day this news was printed in the Williamsburg Gazette Henry and Jefferson met at Albert's and set out on horseback for Richmond. There, in St. John's church, the new Virginia convention, mindful of the bloody threats of the sinister governor, had elected to meet, and thither had gone a half of Williamsburg, leaving Dunmore with his troops at his palace to bite his nails in impotent anger.

The 23d of March dawned over Richmond's unwonted bustle in a quivering haze of intense blue, where cloud puffs swam like lazily pluming swans. Anne had arrived the night before at Goodland and drove in that morning in the Paye chariot. Spring was up, the earth quick with it. All along the way wild crab apple boughs draped with clinging bees, and by the snake fence rows of peach trees had pitched their tents of bloom.

She met Henry in front of the Indian Queen inn and walked with him up to the churchyard, now filling with a vast throng.

"Tell me," she questioned eagerly. "Will it come today?"

He looked down at her with that rare smile which seemed to be the bigger part of him, gliding and transfiguring his other self. "What faith you have in me!" he said.

"I know," she answered. "I have seen it in your face. No one in Virginia can do it save you—none of them. It must be the voice before the arm." "The spark before the explosion," he muttered, "and the train is nearly laid." His hands moved restlessly.

"I have longed—prayed—for some new overt act of Dunmore's that should be spark to powder. But he lies low. And it must come from us. You were right when you said that last fall at Winchester. Boston is trodden on, but she lies quiet. The colonies look to us. It is the voice of the south, of Virginia, that is wanting."

He stopped. Jefferson was hastening toward them. He bowed to Anne. "Have you heard the buzz from London?" he asked Henry hurriedly. "Tis all among the delegates. 'Tis declared that our petitions to the king are graciously received, that all the acts will be repealed save the admiralty and declaratory and that North and Dartmouth will be replaced."

"Aye," burst Henry fiercely. "Another Tory tale! And they will waver again. Tom, Tom, it must be now or never!"

He stopped abruptly and strode across the churchyard over the matted ivy on the shrunken mounds and, threading his way between the old slate tombstones, upright like black lichen-covered lids, entered the edifice.

From her seat in the west gallery, whither Jefferson had taken her, Anne surveyed the scene below.

The first proceedings interested her little—the reading of Jamaica's late memorial to the king—and her gaze wandered. Through the open windows she could hear the hum of the great crowd about the building and catch a glimmer of the foaming James. The space below her was packed and full of a strange intentness.

Here and there she could see faces which she knew. The ladies of Richmond were scattered through both galleries. Freneau and young St. George Tucker were leaning over the rail opposite. Jefferson and Colonel Benjamin Harrison of Berkeley sat together just below Peyton Randolph, the president.

Colonel Washington sat far back, hands on knees, quiet and meditating, and just below her Mr. Thomas Nelson shifted nervously in his seat, turning his eyes now there, now here.

Well to the front sat Richard Henry Lee of Chantilly, "the gentleman of the silver hand." The black bandage he wore over his hand fascinated her. She had heard it said he wore it to hide a wound he got swan shooting on the Potomac.

Her attention came back with a start as she heard the resolution in answer to Jamaica that "it is the most ardent wish of this colony, and we are persuaded of the whole continent of North America, to see a speedy return to those halcyon days when we lived a free and happy people." As she looked down at Henry, Anne saw that he was scribbling on a scrap of paper.

There was a hush as he arose and a buzz of expectancy as he mounted the rostrum. He held in his hand the paper upon which he had been scribbling. Anne felt a touch of disappointment at the cold, measured quality of his tone. With that flickering half smile which meant dissent he moved an amendment to the Jamaica resolutions. He read without a gesture, in pronunciation as plain as homespun. His voice moved evenly, almost carelessly, over the periods.

But as he progressed the assembly awoke with a shock, and Anne saw a certain ripple almost of alarm surge over it. Henry had spoken the phrase, "our inalienable rights and liberties."

be put in a state of defense and that there be a committee to prepare a plan for embodying, arming and disciplining such a number of men as may be sufficient for that purpose."

THIS PITTSBURGH MAN, TOO. It "Braced Him Up"—Put Him on His Feet When He Was Run Down and Sickly.

"Allowing my system to become thoroughly undermined by hard work, loss of sleep and nervousness, the result was that I was a fit subject for the hospital. A friend of mine recommended my taking Paine's Celery Compound, which I did, and after taking one bottle of your valuable compound, felt much better. A second bottle has put me on my feet again. It braced me up. I now feel like a new man."—L. J. Sheets, 223 Lehigh avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tired, Weak, But Paine's Celery Compound Made Her Strong.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 20, 1904.—"I was feeling tired and weak and had been troubled with nervousness for a long time. When I walked on the street I became dizzy and felt that I was going to fall. I had consulted with the best physicians, but got no relief."

"I had read of the numerous cures made by Paine's Celery Compound, and finally decided to try it. From the start the benefit which I desired was marked. After taking three bottles I feel that I am entirely cured."—Mrs. S. A. Adder, 813 4th street.

"Blood and stomach and heart and lungs—liver and bowels and brain—the center of all the LIFE, HEALTH and VITALITY in the human body is in the NERVES. Trace your sickness and tired feeling to its real source."

Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., L. D., of Dartmouth University, famous discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound.

We Paid $100,000

For Liquezone—Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.

This Company, after testing Liquezone for two years in the most difficult germ diseases, paid $100,000 for the American rights. That is by far the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery.

We publish this fact to show you the value of Liquezone. Men of our class don't pay a price like that save for a product of remarkable worth to humanity.

Kills Inside Germs.

The reason for that price is this: Liquezone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues too. Nothing else in the world is so good for the human body; yet Liquezone is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill.

Liquezone destroys at once and forever the cause of any germ disease. And there is no other way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is helpless in troubles of this kind.

Not Medicine.

Liquezone is not made by compounding drugs. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, this gas is made part of the liquid product. Liquezone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen is the very source of all vitality, the most essential element of life. Liquezone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. Its effects are exhilarating and purifying. But germs are vegetables; and Liquezone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Liquezone goes wherever the blood goes, destroying every germ in the body. In this way it cures diseases which medicine never cures. It will do more for sick humanity than all the drugs in the world combined.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquezone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

FAREWELL SERMON OF L. F. LAVERTY

The Church Crowded at Both Services to Hear the Words of the Pastor.

"Peace be with you, and peace be unto you," was the theme of the farewell sermon by Rev. L. F. Laverty at the First Presbyterian church last night. At both morning and evening services, the church was crowded. Extra seating was required, for hundreds, members of other churches, were present.

Rev. Mr. Laverty told of the work accomplished since he came here five years and four months ago. In that time, on the church debt $5,000 has been paid, which now leaves the church free from obligations. To foreign mission work $6,000 has been given. About 275 members have united with the church under his pastorate, of whom 211 remain. The church now has a membership of 515. In the past 64 months, 63 deaths have occurred.

Rev. Mr. Laverty will leave for Kankakee, Ill., Wednesday. He will preach his first sermon as pastor of his new charge Sunday next.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Interests Everybody.

The most important event of the coming week and the one which will most interest the East Liverpool people is the hospital bazaar which will be in progress on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Since the first of the year the committee has worked untiringly and the ladies of the hospital association, along with their assistants, will have everything in readiness for the opening on Thursday. An attractive feature of the bazaar will be the various booths which will be artistically arranged, where useful as well as beautiful articles will be sold. The supper which will be given on each evening of the bazaar will be quite fine, and ample provisions have been made to serve the very large crowd which is expected to be present.

The Coming Concert.

Arrangements are actively progressing for the concert for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. to be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary. A rehearsal will be held tonight. The hall of the association is to be handsomely arranged for the event, the stage will be enlarged and footlights provided. A date for presentation of the program has not been definitely fixed, but Tuesday, April 5, will probably be selected. By giving the performance at the association hall, expenses will be much less than if it were presented at the opera house.

Coming Wedding.

Lisbon, March 21.—(Special.)—The coming marriage of Walter Cope, of Johnstown, Pa., and Miss Clara Fraser, of Lisbon, is announced. Mr. Cope was formerly local manager for the Columbiana County Telephone company, but resigned last summer to accept a position at Johnstown. Miss Fraser recently resigned her position in the Columbiana exchange here, where she has been employed several years.

For the Hospital Bazaar.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the hospital bazaar gives notice that all donations of uncooked chickens, meat and potatoes should be delivered at the hospital building on Wednesday next; other donations early Thursday morning. Those who are to send their donations to private individuals can do so on those dates or before.

Temperance Meetings Held.

Lisbon, March 21.—(Special.)—Union temperance meetings were held in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches here last evening and were addressed by Rev. C. Manley Rice, of the Christian church, and Rev. Mr. Brandt, of the Reformed church. Both ministers spoke in each church, exchanging places during the evening.

Sale a Success.

The ladies of St. Stephen's Missionary Society realized considerable success on Saturday afternoon with their cake sale in Mayhew's grocery store. A good patronage was the means whereby the ladies may add a neat sum to the society fund.

Will Entertain Friends.

Mrs. Harry Smith will entertain about 20 of her friends tomorrow afternoon at her home on College street. The afternoon will be spent in card playing.

Wilcher-Emmerling.

DO ASSESSORS HOLD OVER?

PROBLEM LEFT TO THE STATE
ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Question a Complex One and of Deep Interest to the People.

Columbus, March 21.—(Special.)—The question raised by Columbiana county officials as to the effect of the Chapman bill abolishing spring elections on assessors is now before the state officials for solution. Opinions differ as to the tenure of assessors elected last year. Smith W. Bennett, of the attorney general's office, thinks assessors do not hold over, while Secretary of State Laylin inclines to the belief that they do. Auditor of State Guilbert has referred the matter to Attorney General Wade Ellis, who is expected to give an opinion on it soon.

The question is a complex one. The representative of this paper drew attention to the case of a Salem assessor or who will not serve this year, which raises the question, if assessors hold over, of how his successor is to be appointed. Secretary of State Laylin thought the power of appointment would rest with either council, the county auditor or commissioners for cities and township trustees for townships.

If the attorney general decides assessors do not hold over a law will be enacted at an early date which will probably provide for appointment of assessors.

SOUTH SIDE FOREIGNERS FINED

And Will Likely Be More Cautious
About Their Behavior
Hereafter.

It is likely the foreigners who have been making life a burden for residents of Chester in the vicinity of Sixth and Carolina avenue will conduct themselves in a more orderly manner in the future. Within the past few weeks no less than six Italians have been compelled to pay the penalty for their wrong doing and two more were gathered in Saturday evening.

The attention of the authorities has been directed to the lawlessness, and for several Saturdays have been watching the neighborhood. Mayor Mercer and his officers have been compelled to contend with a number of drunks among the foreigners every Saturday night and determined to put a stop to their antics. Saturday evening the mayor and Chief Winn appeared on the scene just in time to witness some of their depredations, and they were compelled to answer the charge of disorderly conduct today. Each was fined $6.00 and paid the fine willingly, promising to be good in the future.

CANNOT PLAY FRIDAY

Street Car Men And Pottery Workers
Cannot Meet on That Date.

Owing to the game between the East Liverpool five and the Marietta college five to be played at Rock Springs Friday night, it has been necessary to postpone the contest between the street car men and the team representing the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery, scheduled for that evening.

All preliminaries have been arranged for the latter game and it may be played on Wednesday evening. Charles Zang will referee, Charles Ferguson will do the scoring and the time will be kept by Criss McConnell. The rivalry aroused in Chester over the arrangements for the game has become so strong that several teams have been organized to play the winners. The outcome will therefore result in at least two games to follow the main contest. The Juniors and Sterlings will play the preliminary to the big game.

New Insurance Company.

Preliminary arrangements have been about completed for the organization of the Ohio Valley Insurance company, exclusive mention of which was made in the News Review several weeks ago. A large portion of the stock has been subscribed, and it is thought a meeting will be held this week to elect permanent officers, after which a state charter will be asked for.

Will Work at the Park.

Charles A. Wood has arrived from Coshocton, where he has been employed in the pottery there. Mr. Wood will be engaged at Rock Springs park during the coming season. He reports the pottery at Coshocton doing very little business, and the prospects for a good run are not encouraging.

CHESTER NOTES.

Charles Cunningham has returned from Owlsville, where he has been working. He spent Sunday with relatives in Chester.

Ota Johnston and Etta Wetzel, who have been visiting relatives at Zalia, returned home today.

Homer Fenton has located his saw mill on the Marion Geer farm, and active operations will begin in a few days. John McBee and his brother have been engaged to cut the timber, and have already gone to work.

FUNERAL OF MISS DAVIES THE ACCIDENT VICTIM

Services at the Home on Saturday Evening Was Largely Attended.

Funeral services over the remains of Miss Bessie Davies, who met with such a tragic death on the railroad near Walker last week, were conducted at the home Saturday evening. Rev. G. W. Menough, who has had charge of the Walker chapel for several months, and who was instrumental in converting the young girl during the revival there last winter, conducted the services Saturday evening, being assisted by Rev. J. W. Gorrell, pastor of the Christian church of East Liverpool.

The Sunday school of the Walker chapel attended the funeral service in a body. The dead girl was a faithful worker in the Sunday school and was beloved by all who knew her. The members of the school made arrangements for several beautiful floral tributes. A harp and a broken wreath were two of the very appropriate emblems, and other flowers in profusion surrounded the casket.

The preachers made eloquent and appropriate remarks, and the services were both impressive and touching. The Pennsylvania company provided a special train to convey the remains from Walker to Dennison. It left Sunday afternoon and with the family and Rev. Mr. Menough other intimate friends of the family took passage. At Dennison another service was conducted today, Rev. Mr. Menough officiating. The funeral was attended by the members of the Dennison high school, of which Miss Davies had been a student, and the attendance was very large.

FOREIGNERS FINED

And Will Likely Be More Cautious About Their Behavior Hereafter.

It is likely the foreigners who have been making life a burden for residents of Chester in the vicinity of Sixth and Carolina avenue will conduct themselves in a more orderly manner in the future. Within the past few weeks no less than six Italians have been compelled to pay the penalty for their wrong doing and two more were gathered in Saturday evening.

The attention of the authorities has been directed to the lawlessness, and for several Saturdays have been watching the neighborhood. Mayor Mercer and his officers have been compelled to contend with a number of drunks among the foreigners every Saturday night and determined to put a stop to their antics. Saturday evening the mayor and Chief Winn appeared on the scene just in time to witness some of their depredations, and they were compelled to answer the charge of disorderly conduct today. Each was fined $6.00 and paid the fine willingly, promising to be good in the future.

CANNOT PLAY FRIDAY

Street Car Men And Pottery Workers Cannot Meet on That Date.

Owing to the game between the East Liverpool five and the Marietta college five to be played at Rock Springs Friday night, it has been necessary to postpone the contest between the street car men and the team representing the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery, scheduled for that evening.

All preliminaries have been arranged for the latter game and it may be played on Wednesday evening. Charles Zang will referee, Charles Ferguson will do the scoring and the time will be kept by Criss McConnell. The rivalry aroused in Chester over the arrangements for the game has become so strong that several teams have been organized to play the winners. The outcome will therefore result in at least two games to follow the main contest. The Juniors and Sterlings will play the preliminary to the big game.

New Insurance Company.

Preliminary arrangements have been about completed for the organization of the Ohio Valley Insurance company, exclusive mention of which was made in the News Review several weeks ago. A large portion of the stock has been subscribed, and it is thought a meeting will be held this week to elect permanent officers, after which a state charter will be asked for.

Will Work at the Park.

Charles A. Wood has arrived from Coshocton, where he has been employed in the pottery there. Mr. Wood will be engaged at Rock Springs park during the coming season. He reports the pottery at Coshocton doing very little business, and the prospects for a good run are not encouraging.

CHESTER NOTES.

Charles Cunningham has returned from Owlsville, where he has been working. He spent Sunday with relatives in Chester.

Ota Johnston and Etta Wetzel, who have been visiting relatives at Zalia, returned home today.

Homer Fenton has located his saw mill on the Marion Geer farm, and active operations will begin in a few days. John McBee and his brother have been engaged to cut the timber, and have already gone to work.

FUNERAL OF MISS DAVIES THE ACCIDENT VICTIM

Services at the Home on Saturday Evening Was Largely Attended.

Funeral services over the remains of Miss Bessie Davies, who met with such a tragic death on the railroad near Walker last week, were conducted at the home Saturday evening. Rev. G. W. Menough, who has had charge of the Walker chapel for several months, and who was instrumental in converting the young girl during the revival there last winter, conducted the services Saturday evening, being assisted by Rev. J. W. Gorrell, pastor of the Christian church of East Liverpool.

The Sunday school of the Walker chapel attended the funeral service in a body. The dead girl was a faithful worker in the Sunday school and was beloved by all who knew her. The members of the school made arrangements for several beautiful floral tributes. A harp and a broken wreath were two of the very appropriate emblems, and other flowers in profusion surrounded the casket.

The preachers made eloquent and appropriate remarks, and the services were both impressive and touching. The Pennsylvania company provided a special train to convey the remains from Walker to Dennison. It left Sunday afternoon and with the family and Rev. Mr. Menough other intimate friends of the family took passage. At Dennison another service was conducted today, Rev. Mr. Menough officiating. The funeral was attended by the members of the Dennison high school, of which Miss Davies had been a student, and the attendance was very large.
